Neumann submits amended proposal

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Neumann Homes has amended its lawsuit against the village of Antioch, and has submitted a new development proposal for consideration. The lawsuit says the plaintiffs have suffered significant damages exceeding $47 million.

"We have amended our lawsuit to bring it up to date with what has happened over the past 90 days," said Ken Neumann. "We have an obligation to mitigate our damages, and that's why we've submitted a new proposal."

According to Neumann, the new plan calls for 1,240 single-family homes with a minimum lot size of 6,600 square feet to be built on the 640 acres on the Anest property formerly owned by Homer White. This is equivalent to 1.96 dwelling units per acre.

All cul-de-sacs and road radii have been changed to be in conformance with the village's subdivision ordinance.

"The biggest thing about this new proposal is that it exactly and precisely meets the requirements set by the village board when they denied our last proposal," said Neumann. "Everything is as per their (the village's) ordinances and rules."

The newest proposal has eliminated an additional 68 homes, 150 fewer homes than the initial proposal of 1,390 homes. "We are doing this to mitigate our damages," said Neumann. "Our damages are very substantial." He added that Neumann Homes isn't necessarily happy with this proposal and the reduction of homes.

The permanent open space is said to include 62.44 acres of buffers containing walking paths, 47.67 acres is the Homer White Lake, 39.04 acres is public park dedication, 8.94 acres is for private recreation (community center and club center), and 30.15 acres is listed as "other." This figure is 29.7 percent of the entire parcel.

The property is said to contain additional open space bringing the total to 289.2 acres or 45.6 percent of the site. The recreation center is to be built in the second phase of the development.

The proposal will come before the combined planning and zoning committee on Oct. 11.

Ordinance planned for future trees

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

While the old oak tree's plight in between two lots in the Woods of Antioch may be in other hands, Mayor Taso Maravelas has plans to create an ordinance to save future trees. With the help of a horticulturist, the mayor will begin working to ensure the well being of "the beautiful trees in Antioch of the future."

Resident Debbie Prather reported that, to no avail, Maravelas and village administrator Mike Haley had been out to ask the woman under contract to purchase one of the two lots where the tree resides if she would consider selecting a different lot.

"I live right behind that property on Hillside. It's a very nice tree, but I don't think there is anything we (the village) can do," said Maravelas. "We are aware of the problem (trees dying when they are disrupted by construction), and we're going to work to fix it."

"The tree has been totally cut back by the arborist in hopes that the tree will live," said Prather. "I wouldn't consider it one of the prettiest trees in Antioch anymore, and it may well die in another 2-3 years."

Prather said an orange fence has been put up around the tree along with no trespassing signs. "We feel beaten up," she said.

While many of the tree's neighbors are sympathetic, they are unwilling to put up money for the cause. "People in our neighborhood who have had to pay to have trees removed are against using association money to buy the second lot," said Prather. "We just don't think it's worth going on (with efforts to save the tree)."

Neighbors have given up on saving this 160-year-old oak tree in the Woods of Antioch subdivision. Residents have been rallying to save the tree, which is on property purchased by KLM Developers.—Photo by Sandy Bressner

Antioch loses one of its finest

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Antioch lost one of its finest with the death of lifelong resident Charles "Tod" Maplethorpe on Aug. 21.

"He really loved his family, the village and the fire department," said his widow Carol. "And, everyone who knew him loved him. I just know he's greatly missed."

Carol said her husband had a lot of expertise about the village. "He was happy to share what he knew with everyone," she said. "He was a mentor to Tim Wells (former village administrator) and to the fire chiefs who followed him."

Tod began his service with the Antioch Fire Dept. in 1946 at the age of 21 years old, and spent 23 years of that service as the fire chief. He continued to work for the fire department through this year. "He went to the fire station every morning. He did a lot of work numbering the new houses so the fire department and the Antioch Rescue Squad would know where to find them," said Carol.

To further serve the village, Tod worked for 30 years in the public works department, where he retired as the superintendent. "He was very gentle and soft spoken, but he knew a lot," Carol added.

"We lost an icon. Tod was a tremendous individual. He contributed very much to our community," said Mayor Taso Maravelas. "My family and I will miss him very much."

Tod was an active member of the United Methodist Church, the national and Illinois associations for fire chiefs and was a founder of the Lake County Fire Chiefs, the Sequoia Masonic Lodge, served on the Antioch Grade School board of education and belonged to the Lakes Region Historical Society. "He helped with the historical society a lot, because he had a lot of early memories of Antioch," Carol said.

In appreciation for his dedicated service, the community room in Village Hall was named in his honor, as was the new Fire Station #2.

Tod is survived by his wife, his son Paul and his wife Kelly of Round Lake, his daughter Ruth and her husband Dave Johnson of Dixon, his brother James and his wife Vivian of Antioch, and his six grandchildren: Kara, Amy, Scott and Erik Maplethorpe and Marielizabeth and Patrick Johnson.

Vote for favorite quilt, enjoy crafts

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

Traditions grow and change, and Antioch's fall arts and crafts fair/quilt walk, being held on Sept. 8-9 from 10 a.m.-5 p.m. on Saturday and 10 a.m.-4 p.m. on Sunday, is no exception to the rule. The quilt walk was combined with the arts and crafts fair six years ago, and this year those who enjoy the walk can vote for their favorite quilt.

"Votes will be taken at either the Chamber booth at the fair or at Quilter's Dream (located east of Main St. across from the Lake St.

intersection)," said Barbara Porch, director of the Antioch Chamber of Commerce and Industry.

"Entries to win $250 in Chamber gift certification will be accepted at any of the merchants displaying quilts in their windows," Porch added.

Historic quilts will be on display at the Lakes Region Historical Society, located east of Main St. and north of Orchard, from 10 a.m.-4 p.m. on both days. "There are some wonderful old quilts on display there," said Wendy Maston, owner of Quilter's Dream. "They are very delicate and fine."

Booklets describing each new quilt and its window location at the participating merchant downtown will be available at the Chamber's booth or at Maston's store. "This will be very helpful," said Maston. "Last year people could miss seeing some of the quilts from not knowing where they all were located. This gives a description, who made the quilt and where it is."

Porch said this arts and crafts fair draws a different mix of artisans and crafters. "There are a lot more holiday related items with Halloween so close and Thanksgiving and Christmas not far after that."

Village creates new staff position

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

The board of directors of the Village of Antioch voted first to create the position of staff engineer and then to fill it.

The decision to create the position was made on the recommendation of Bob Silhan, director of planning, zoning and building. He said, "In my experience, when a suburban municipality with significant growth pressure begins approaching a 10,000 population, the consideration of creating a staff engineer position becomes a discussion point with the board.

Silhan sited Lindenhurst with a population of 8,038 and Beach Park with a population of 9,513 as nearby communities with similar populations to Antioch that employ staff engineers.

After returning from executive session, James Keim was appointed to the position. Silhan said his specialty is hydrology, important to the position because of stormwater issues.

It was discussed that the staff engineer will not negate the need for a consulting engineer firm, currently Clark Dietz. The staff engineer will review plats and related engineering, act as chief enforcement officer under the Lake County Watershed Development ordinance, administer the contract with the consultant engineer, manage small capital improvement projects among other duties.

The Prayer of Jabez' seminar Sept. 29

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

The "New York Times" best seller "The Prayer of Jabez" has been developed into a seminar co-sponsored by the Chain of Lakes Community Bible Church and the Walk Thru the Bible ministries that published the book. The seminar will be held on Sept. 29 from 9 a.m.-3 p.m. at the Antioch Upper Grade School (AUGS).

"The book took everybody by surprise," said Ward Cushman, who will present the seminar. "The seminar was developed after the fact (by the book's author). It's a very dynamic seminar. This is the first time for the seminar in northern Illinois."

The seminar is open to all from 7th grade to adult. "This is not to promote our church," said Cushman. "It's only sponsored by our church." A children's seminar "Kids in the Book" will run simultaneously for grades 1-6.

The registration fee includes lunch. The early fee is $15 for individuals, $25 for couples and $35 for families. After Sept. 16, the cost will be increased to $20 for individuals, $30 for couples and $40 for families.

To register and purchase tickets, or for more information, call the church at 838-0103.

Neighborly ways travel to Iowa

The facts are pretty sketchy and I usually don't report on something when that is the situation, but I'll make an exception this time.

I received a phone call from a woman named Terri Phillips from Waterloo, Iowa. She left a message on my voice mail asking that I return her call. "I have a really wonderful story to tell you about some pretty incredible young men in your community. Call me...."

When I returned her phone call, Phillips said, "I have a really great story to tell you about these young men, but unfortunately I don't know any of their names."

"It was a team of boys who apparently play in the football in the Viking League. They said they weren't in town as part of a school team."

"The University of Northern Iowa has a dome-type athletic stadium, and there was some sort of exhibition game."

"Anyway, these boys came into

OUR TOWN

a Pizza Place in Cedar Falls called Doughy Joey's. The first thing the coach said was, 'There are other people here, you need to behave like gentlemen,' and they did. The whole evening they behaved perfectly."

"I was out for my birthday and they joined in and sang happy birthday to me. They were so nice. They didn't do it in a silly or sarcastic way, they just joined in. That was so special to me."

"After that, they were so quiet when they left, I didn't even hear them leave."

"I just thought their town should know about what a nice impression they made."

I tried to reach the coach of the Antioch Youth Vikings to see if I could find out some names or more details, but could not.

So, if you're about 12 years old and were in Iowa the weekend of Aug. 25-26 with the Antioch Youth Vikings, pat yourself on the back and bring show this to your mom and dad.

The Antioch Public Library will be subscribing to a "netlibrary" in the near future that will have online non-fiction titles that users can download and read on a personal computer. Nifty.

Also, the library has a new web address: www.antiochdistrictlibrary.org. The catalog can be accessed from this address as well as find out about upcoming programs.

If you have interesting information or anecdotes to submit for "Our Town" call staff reporter Julie Murphy at 223-8161, ext. 600 or e-mail, moorjie@ix.netcom.com

Dinner not a total wash, just going to be a little late

The other night, very late into the night, the "dumb as a box of rocks" yellow Labrador retriever that resides in our household, tangled with a skunk and lost. There is nothing like the revolting smell of skunk right outside your bedroom window to jolt you out of a sound slumber. The stench will suck every bit of breathable air from your lungs and make your eyes water like Niagara Falls.

After such an incident you can't simply put the critter in the basement till the morning, because not only will the fumes funnel up through your duct work, the dog's whining will drive you through the rafters.

So, you fill the tub with as many smelly bath beads as you can find, and heave-ho until you have successfully submerged your 127-pound critter. You shampoo,

JINGLE FROM PRINGLE

Lynn Pringle

shampoo, and shampoo to absolutely no avail. Finally, you resort to the old remedy—tomatoes.

Not having any tomato juice, tomato sauce, stewed tomatoes or whole tomatoes, we opted for three jars of Prego spaghetti sauce that were supposed to be part of tomorrow night's dinner. Naturally Rin Tin Tin shook like an Elvis impersonator as we dumped jar after jar of red sauce all over his yellow coat, thus redecorating the bathroom from Early American to Early Spaghetti Sauce.

And exactly where were the Pringle children through all of this? The children who begged, pleaded and whined for this lovely critter, promising mom would never have to raise a finger in his maintenance? I tell you where they were, they were nestled all snug in their beds while visions of mom scrubbing skunk smell from their beloved pet danced through their sleeping heads. And even after the final rinse, the job doesn't end there—now it is one o'clock in the morning, and although the dog is somewhat less pungent, you still have to scrub the entire bathroom which is covered in spaghetti sauce and dog hair. Then there is the matter of the 15 wet dog, skunk smelling towels that have to be laundered, not to mention my pajamas.

Wide-awake and staring at the ceiling in a vain attempt to return to slumber land after the ordeal, I turned on the light and grabbed a pen and piece of paper. Hubby, thinking I might be a tad upset that this beast, whom I wanted no part of from day one, threw a wrench into my sleeping pattern, inquired if everything was all right. With a roll of my eyes I explained I was doing what every mom, awoken at midnight to tend to a skunky dog does—I was making a shopping list for the missing ingredients for tomorrow night's dinner that just went down the drain.

And so goes another "Jingle from Pringle."

Readers with information for "Jingle from Pringle" should call Lynn Pringle at 395-6364.

Fundraising concert falls short, future help sought, prizes won

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

The big fundraising concert featuring the Cryan' Shames and the Grease Band to support the free concert series held this summer at the William E. Brook Entertainment Center fell short of expectations in the amount of revenue it generated.

"We raised $2,160 for the entertainment center," said Glenda Sorensen, community development director. "I don't even think we broke even."

The $10 ticket price was to raise money to help cover some of the $17,000 that was spent on hiring bands, people to run the sound system and for set up. "People don't realize that what we have is like a mini Ravinia," said Sorensen. "We know that every year it will become more well known."

This was the first night time concert held in the band shell located behind the shops on the east of Main St. "The audience had a wonderful time under the stars," said Sorensen, who noted that those who did attend came from all over the county. "It rained a lot all throughout the day, and I know that didn't help."

Sorensen said she's looking to make some big changes for next year and hopes that volunteers will come forward to help those changes and planning. "I'm looking for all areas of help," she said. "We have space for about 3,000 people. We can really make this great."

Some changes under consideration are having the type of entertainment alternate between Saturday evening shows and Sunday early afternoon "family days." Sorensen added, "We've had a number of people approach us about renting the facility. We're considering it, though I expect that would be costly. It takes a lot to operate it."

Those interested in volunteering should call Sorensen at 395-6342.

The crowd that did attend the benefit concert didn't leave empty handed.

Pete and Joann Lazu, of Antioch, won a car care bucket donated by Raymond Chevy and Olds as did W. Polezal, of Vernon Hills. Antioch resident Kevin Fielder won a shuttle for two from Port O Blarney to one of the Blarney Island boat races held on Thursday nights.

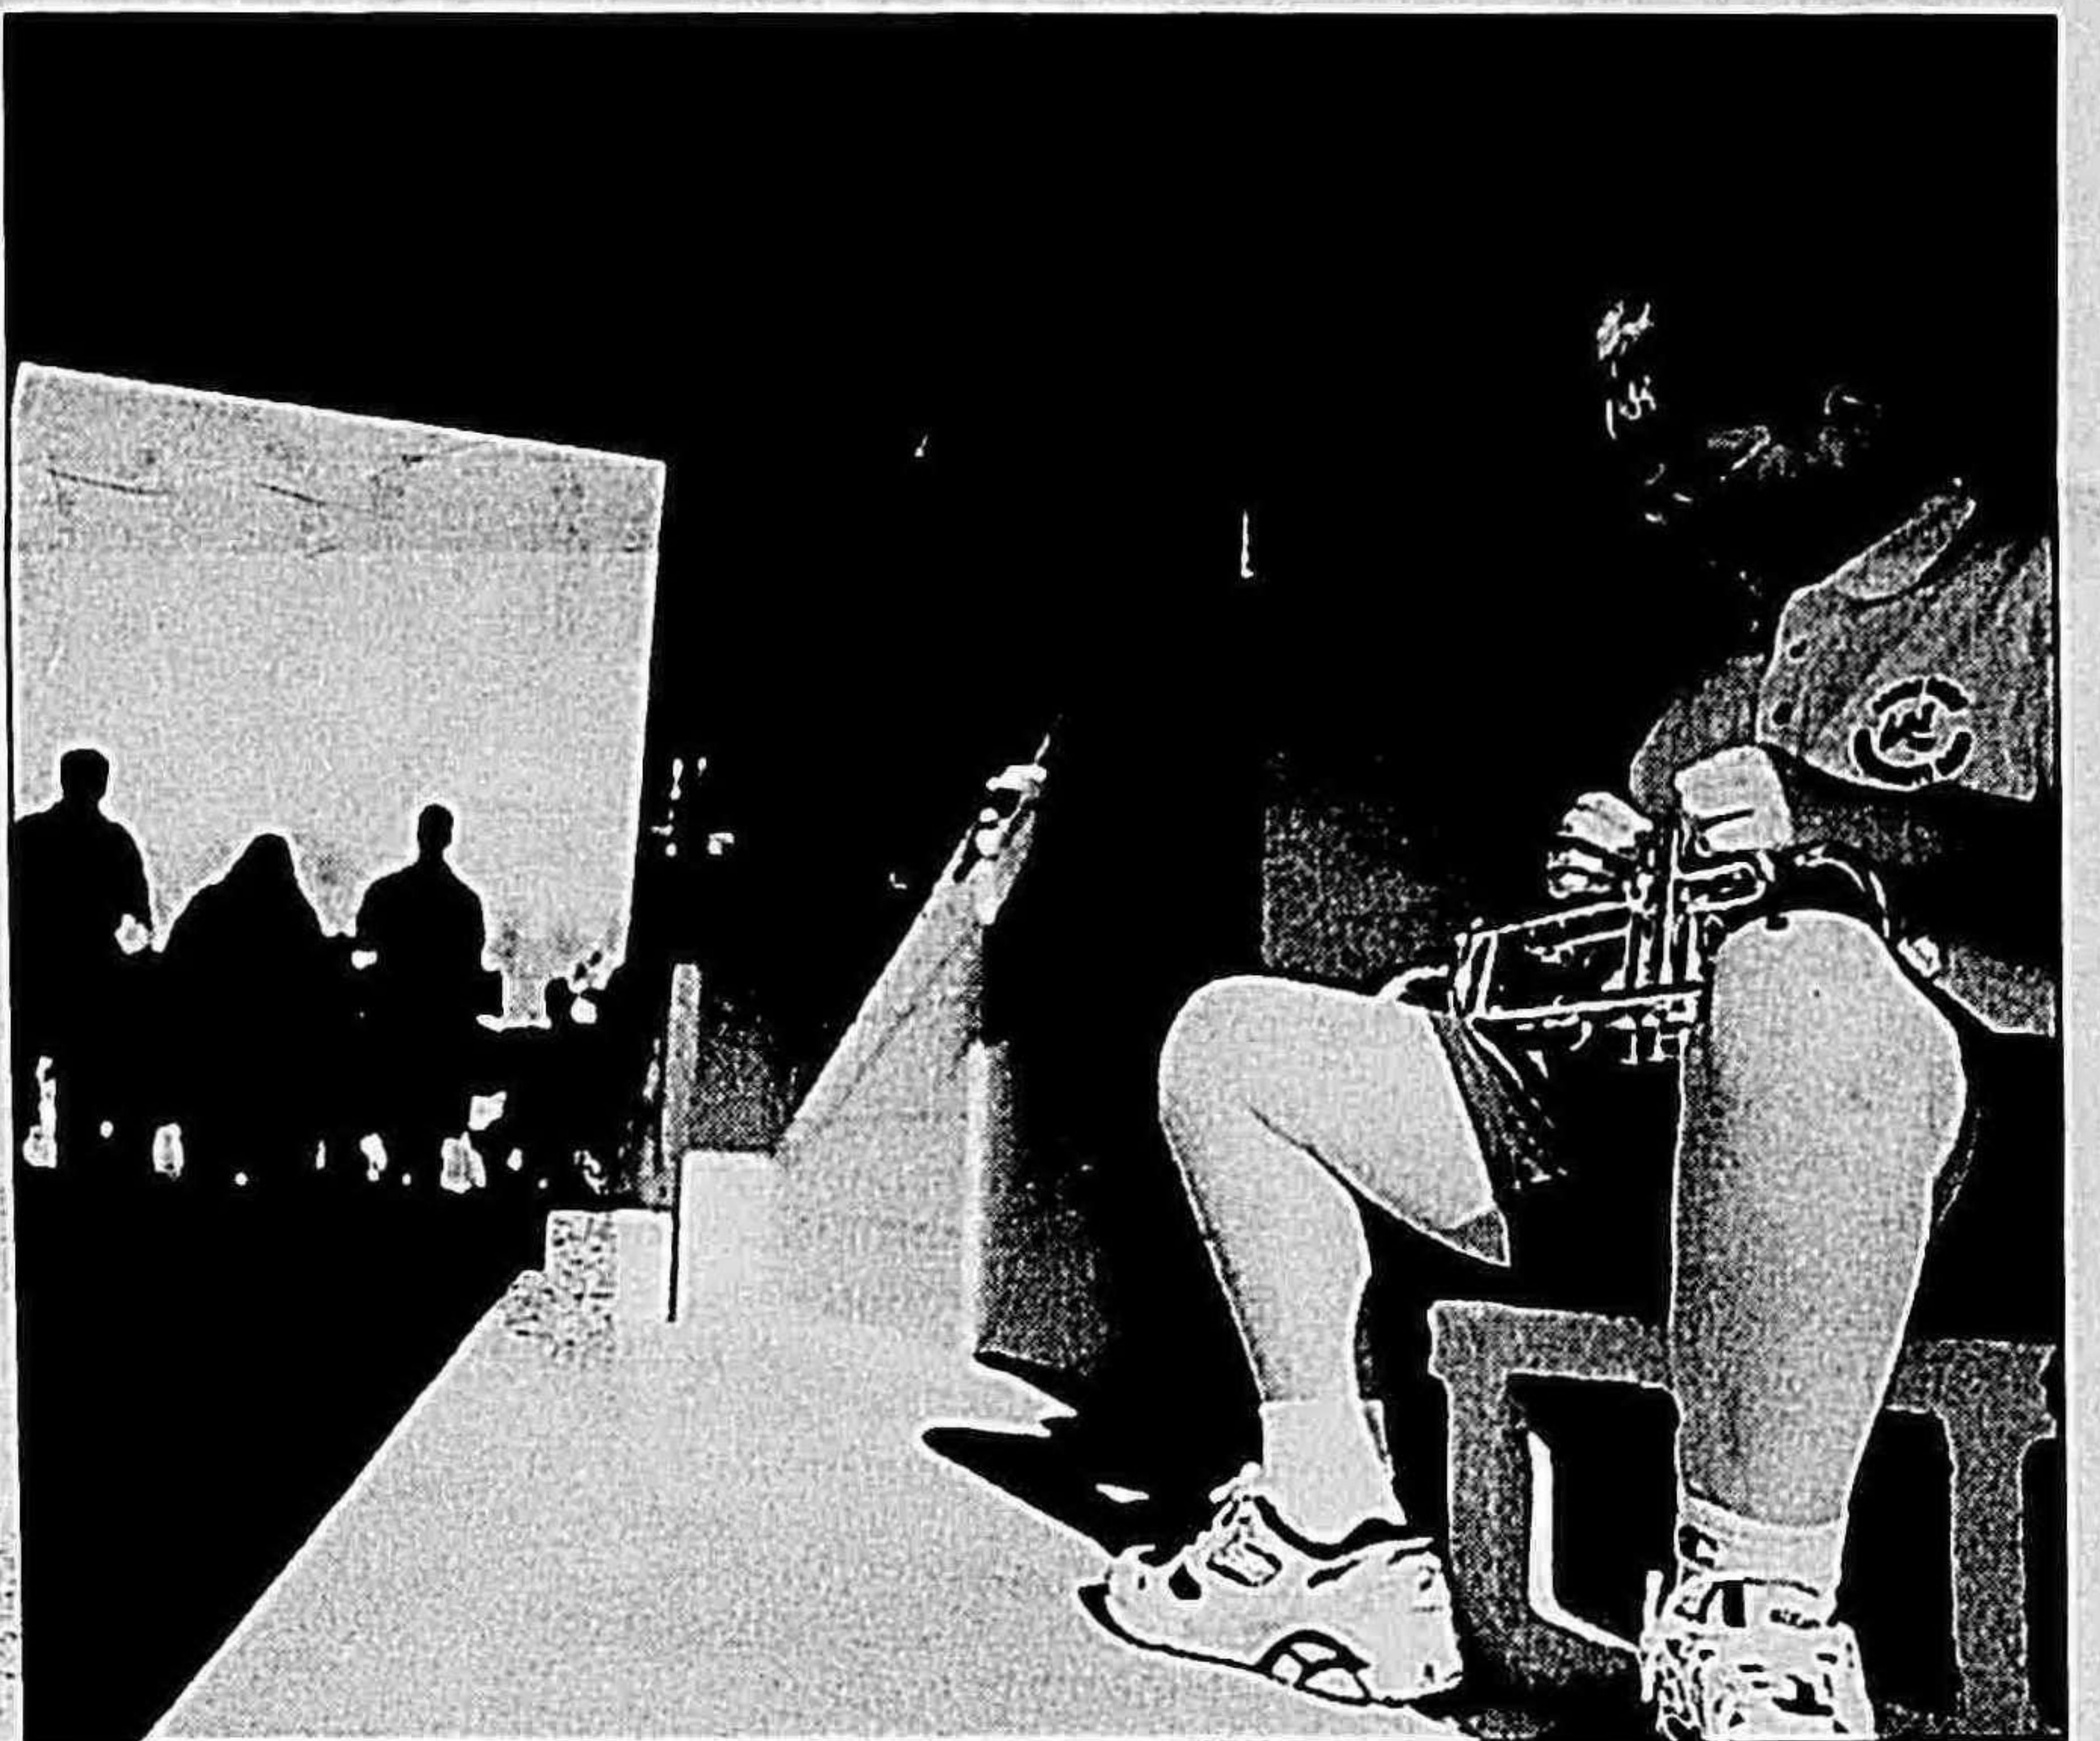

Louise Kowdski and Tom Tucker, both from Antioch, each won $20 gift certificates from Jack's Four Squire. Gene Wagner of Antioch, and the Barnes family of Spring Grove each won a T-shirt and an autographed picture of the Cryan' Shames.

Sue Wielunski, of Bartlett, won $100 toward Oakley sunglasses from Antioch Schwinn. Dawn Vogel, of Antioch, won a Tommy Bahama make up bag from Jack's Four Squire.

Other prizes included sweatshirts and T-shirts from the Limerick Lounge, a Halloween flame light and Cryan Shames compact discs.

"I want to thank all the people who helped the concert season be a success: Antioch Lions Club, Moose Lodge, band parents," said Sorensen. "I also want to thank our talented sound crew: Rich Meltzer, George Rowe, Steve Keown and Ian Wiscom for their dedication. Also, our concert goes-without you, it wouldn't happen."

Additional citations were added for improper lane usage, driving with a BAC over

.08 and for operating a vehicle on a foreign driver's license while revoked in Illinois. Hernandez was assigned a court date and released on the proper cash bond.

David L. Holicz, 25, of 26334 W. Shannon, Antioch, was arrested for driving under the influence of alcohol on Aug. 26 at 12:48 a.m. at the intersection of routes 45 and 173.

Police locked his vehicle traveling 87 mph in 55-mph zone, and witnessed him disobey a red light at the aforementioned intersection.

While asking for identification, police detected the strong odor of alcoholic beverage, and requested field sobriety testing. Holicz failed this testing.

He was arrested and transported to the Antioch Police Dept. where he was issued citations for DUI and speeding. Holicz agreed to a breath test resulting in .156 BAC. He was issued additional citations for driving with BAC over .08 and disobeying a traffic control device.

Holicz was released on $100 cash bond pending his Oct. 2 court date.

Rodney D. Ausloos, 22, of 6707 236th Ave., Paddock Lake, Wis., was arrested for driving under the influence on Aug. 24 at 8:45 p.m. at the intersection of Main and Orchard streets.

Police observed a vehicle make a left-hand turn onto Orchard St. while in the center of the northbound lane of Main St., and another left-hand turn onto Toft St. without signaling.

When pulled over, Ausloos was not wearing a seatbelt and was talking on a cellular telephone. The officer detected the strong odor of alcoholic beverage at this time. When police requested Ausloos's driver's license, the car moved forward as he reached into his back pants pocket.

Ausloos failed all field sobriety testing. He was arrested and transported to the Antioch Police Dept. where he was issued a citation for DUI. He refused all chemical testing. He was issued additional citations for improper turn, failure to signal and failure to wear a seatbelt.

He was released on personal recognition pending his Oct. 2 court date.

Revoked driver's license

Andrew H. Faltynek, 24, of 1223 Main St., Antioch, was arrested for driving while revoked on Aug. 27 at 1:37 a.m. on Rte. 173 at Tiffany.

His vehicle failed to dim its lights as it passed police. The officer turned around and stopped the vehicle.

Faltynek told police he had neither a driver's license nor an insurance card. His identifiers were checked through LEADS/NCIC and back with information that his license was revoked.

He was arrested and transported to the Antioch Police Dept. where he was put through booking procedures and issued citations for driving while revoked, failure to dim headlights and having no insurance. He was released on personal recognition pending his Sept. 26 court date.

No valid driver's license

Ernesto Guadarrama, 26, of 819 Lincoln Ave., Waukegan, was arrested for driving with no valid driver's license on Aug. 22 at 5:52 a.m. on Rte. 173 at McMillen Rd.

Police observed his car straddle the white fog line for one-quarter mile. When stopped, Guadarrama told police he had neither a driver's license nor insurance. His identifiers were checked through LEADS/NCIC/SOS and came back that he had no valid driver's license.

He was arrested and transported to the Antioch Police Dept. where he was put through booking procedures and issued citations for improper lane usage, no valid driver's license and the operation of an uninsured vehicle.

He was released on personal recognition pending his Sept. 26 court date.

Pass a school bus, lose license

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

With school back in session, a reminder about driving laws with regard to school buses and crosswalks is in order.

"The penalty is hefty," said Det. Daryl Youngs of the Antioch Police Dept. "Passing a school bus requires a mandatory court appearance." One or more offenses can result in either the suspension or revocation of one's driver's license.

According to Youngs, the rules are based on whether or not children are present. One cannot pass a school bus if the arm is extended, if the buses are lined up with children present. "A car must stop before meeting the bus (from either direction, when children are present and the arm is out)," said Youngs. "This includes when you're on a private road or on school property."

The exception to this rule is when one is coming from the opposite direction on a four-lane road or highway. In that situation, it is not necessary to stop but Youngs cautioned, "Unless the road is divided by a concrete median, you are taking the chance of a kid running out in front of you."

With regard to crosswalks, whether school crosswalks or otherwise, Youngs said, "We are obligated to give pedestrians the right away. Sometimes you can see someone waiting in an official painted crosswalk forever and no cars stop. People get in a hurry and either don't want to or forget that they are supposed to stop."

Youngs added, "It's good to get this type of information out at the beginning of the school year to give people a reminder."

Heavy hitters

All golfers like to hit those booming 300-yard drives. For Mike Kintis, it's a habit. Kintis has showcased his club head speed for several years now while competing in the RE/MAX World Long Drive Championships.

This is the 10th year Kintis has been competing. He has made it to the World Championships three times. Last year, he made it to the finals and wound up 63rd in the world rankings.

And the Gurnee native again looks to make a run at Palms Golf Club in Mesquite, Nev., where the finals are held Oct. 16-20.

"Just one step at a time," said Kintis, who has qualified for four district finals overall, ranging from Minneapolis to Florida. In those four events, Kintis took first place at two, followed by a second and third in the others.

"I have to finish in the top two to get to Nevada again, I think. There's a lot of long hitters out there, good competition," he said. "But once we qualify (for Nevada), the goal is always to win it."

Kintis, on the heels of his fourth-place effort in Hoffman Estates, will compete in one district Sept. 15 at Green Valley Driving Range in suburban Roselle.

Kintis earned the spot after a whopping drive of 344 yards.

"I've gone to a new driver (the Harrison Pro 2.5)," he said. "That's helped out a lot from an equipment standpoint. I've also been pretty busy with my flexibility training."

There are a total of six regional qualifiers within the Northern Illinois region. Entrants can compete in all six.

Qualifiers from the districts then earn a spot in the World Long Drive Championships in Mesquite. They compete for a share of the $300,000 purse, the largest in the history of the event.

Bartlett's Dan Scardina, who competed in last year's world championship finals, led all qualifiers at the Deer Run Golf Center with a long drive of 389 yards.

At the Green Valley qualifier, Jane Mikita, daughter of former Blackhawks great Stan Mikita, was the lone qualifier in the women's division with a drive of 226 yards.

Grayslake's Tom Robinson fired rounds of 74-71 to capture the Lake County Men's Amateur title held last weekend at Lake Bluff Golf Club. Joe White (72-76) and Adam Chervin (74-75), both of Waukegan, finished second and third, respectively. Waukegan's Dale Paavilainen, Sr. shot 73-78 to finish ninth, John Rueth of Waukegan (77-75) and Vernon Hills' Mike Scardina (76-76) tied for 10th. Grayslake's Al Wright was 17th after rounds of 74-80. Eugene May of Mundelein took top honors in the handicap division with rounds of 84-89.

An early reminder that the 13th Annual Keith Ryan Scholarship Fund and Sports Banquet is coming up Thursday, Oct. 4 at Midlane Resort.

The event features inductions into the Hall of Fame of the Lake County and Waukegan Lions Club. Lake County Hall of Fame inductions include former high school standout athletes Scott Stahoviak of Carmel, Deerfield's Lindsay Knapp, Grant's Billy Klaus, Stevenson's Pat Joyce, Warren's Ron Shelton and Rob Judson of Zion-Benton. Judson, hired as the head men's basketball coach for Northern Illinois, is also the guest speaker.

Lions Club Hall of Fame inductees include Bill Devore, Tim Rucks, Susan Suomu and Richard Watson.

Reception for the event will be at 6 p.m. with dinner at 7. Tickets are $35 per person and can be purchased by calling 543-2488.

Big plays do in the Sequoits

Pankauskas honored before game

By JOHN PHELPS
Sports Editor

Jerry Pankauskas was definitely there in spirit.

The longtime volunteer offensive line coach, who passed away suddenly last winter, was honored as part of pre-game ceremonies as the Antioch varsity football team tangled with Niles West in the season-opener on Aug. 24.

"His active involvement in the community opened up a network that allowed for donations to lead to improvements to the football fields and vehicles for the program," Athletic Director Steve Schoenfelder said in a statement during the ceremony.

In honor of Pankauskas, the team will wear a JP on their helmets this season. A plaque and signed football were also presented to the Pankauskas family. The plaque will be displayed in the high school's weight room and will be awarded to the Lineman of the Year in his honor.

With all emotions at a premium, it was time to settle down for some football.

But the emotions were drained by Niles West running back Emmanuel Simon's two touchdown, 187-yard rushing effort. His efforts helped the Wolves come away with a 34-21 victory.

"I think I got stepped on by him on one play," said senior defensive back Trent Domel of the 220-pound fullback. "We need to do a better job of tackling this week (against Fenton). And their big plays killed us today."

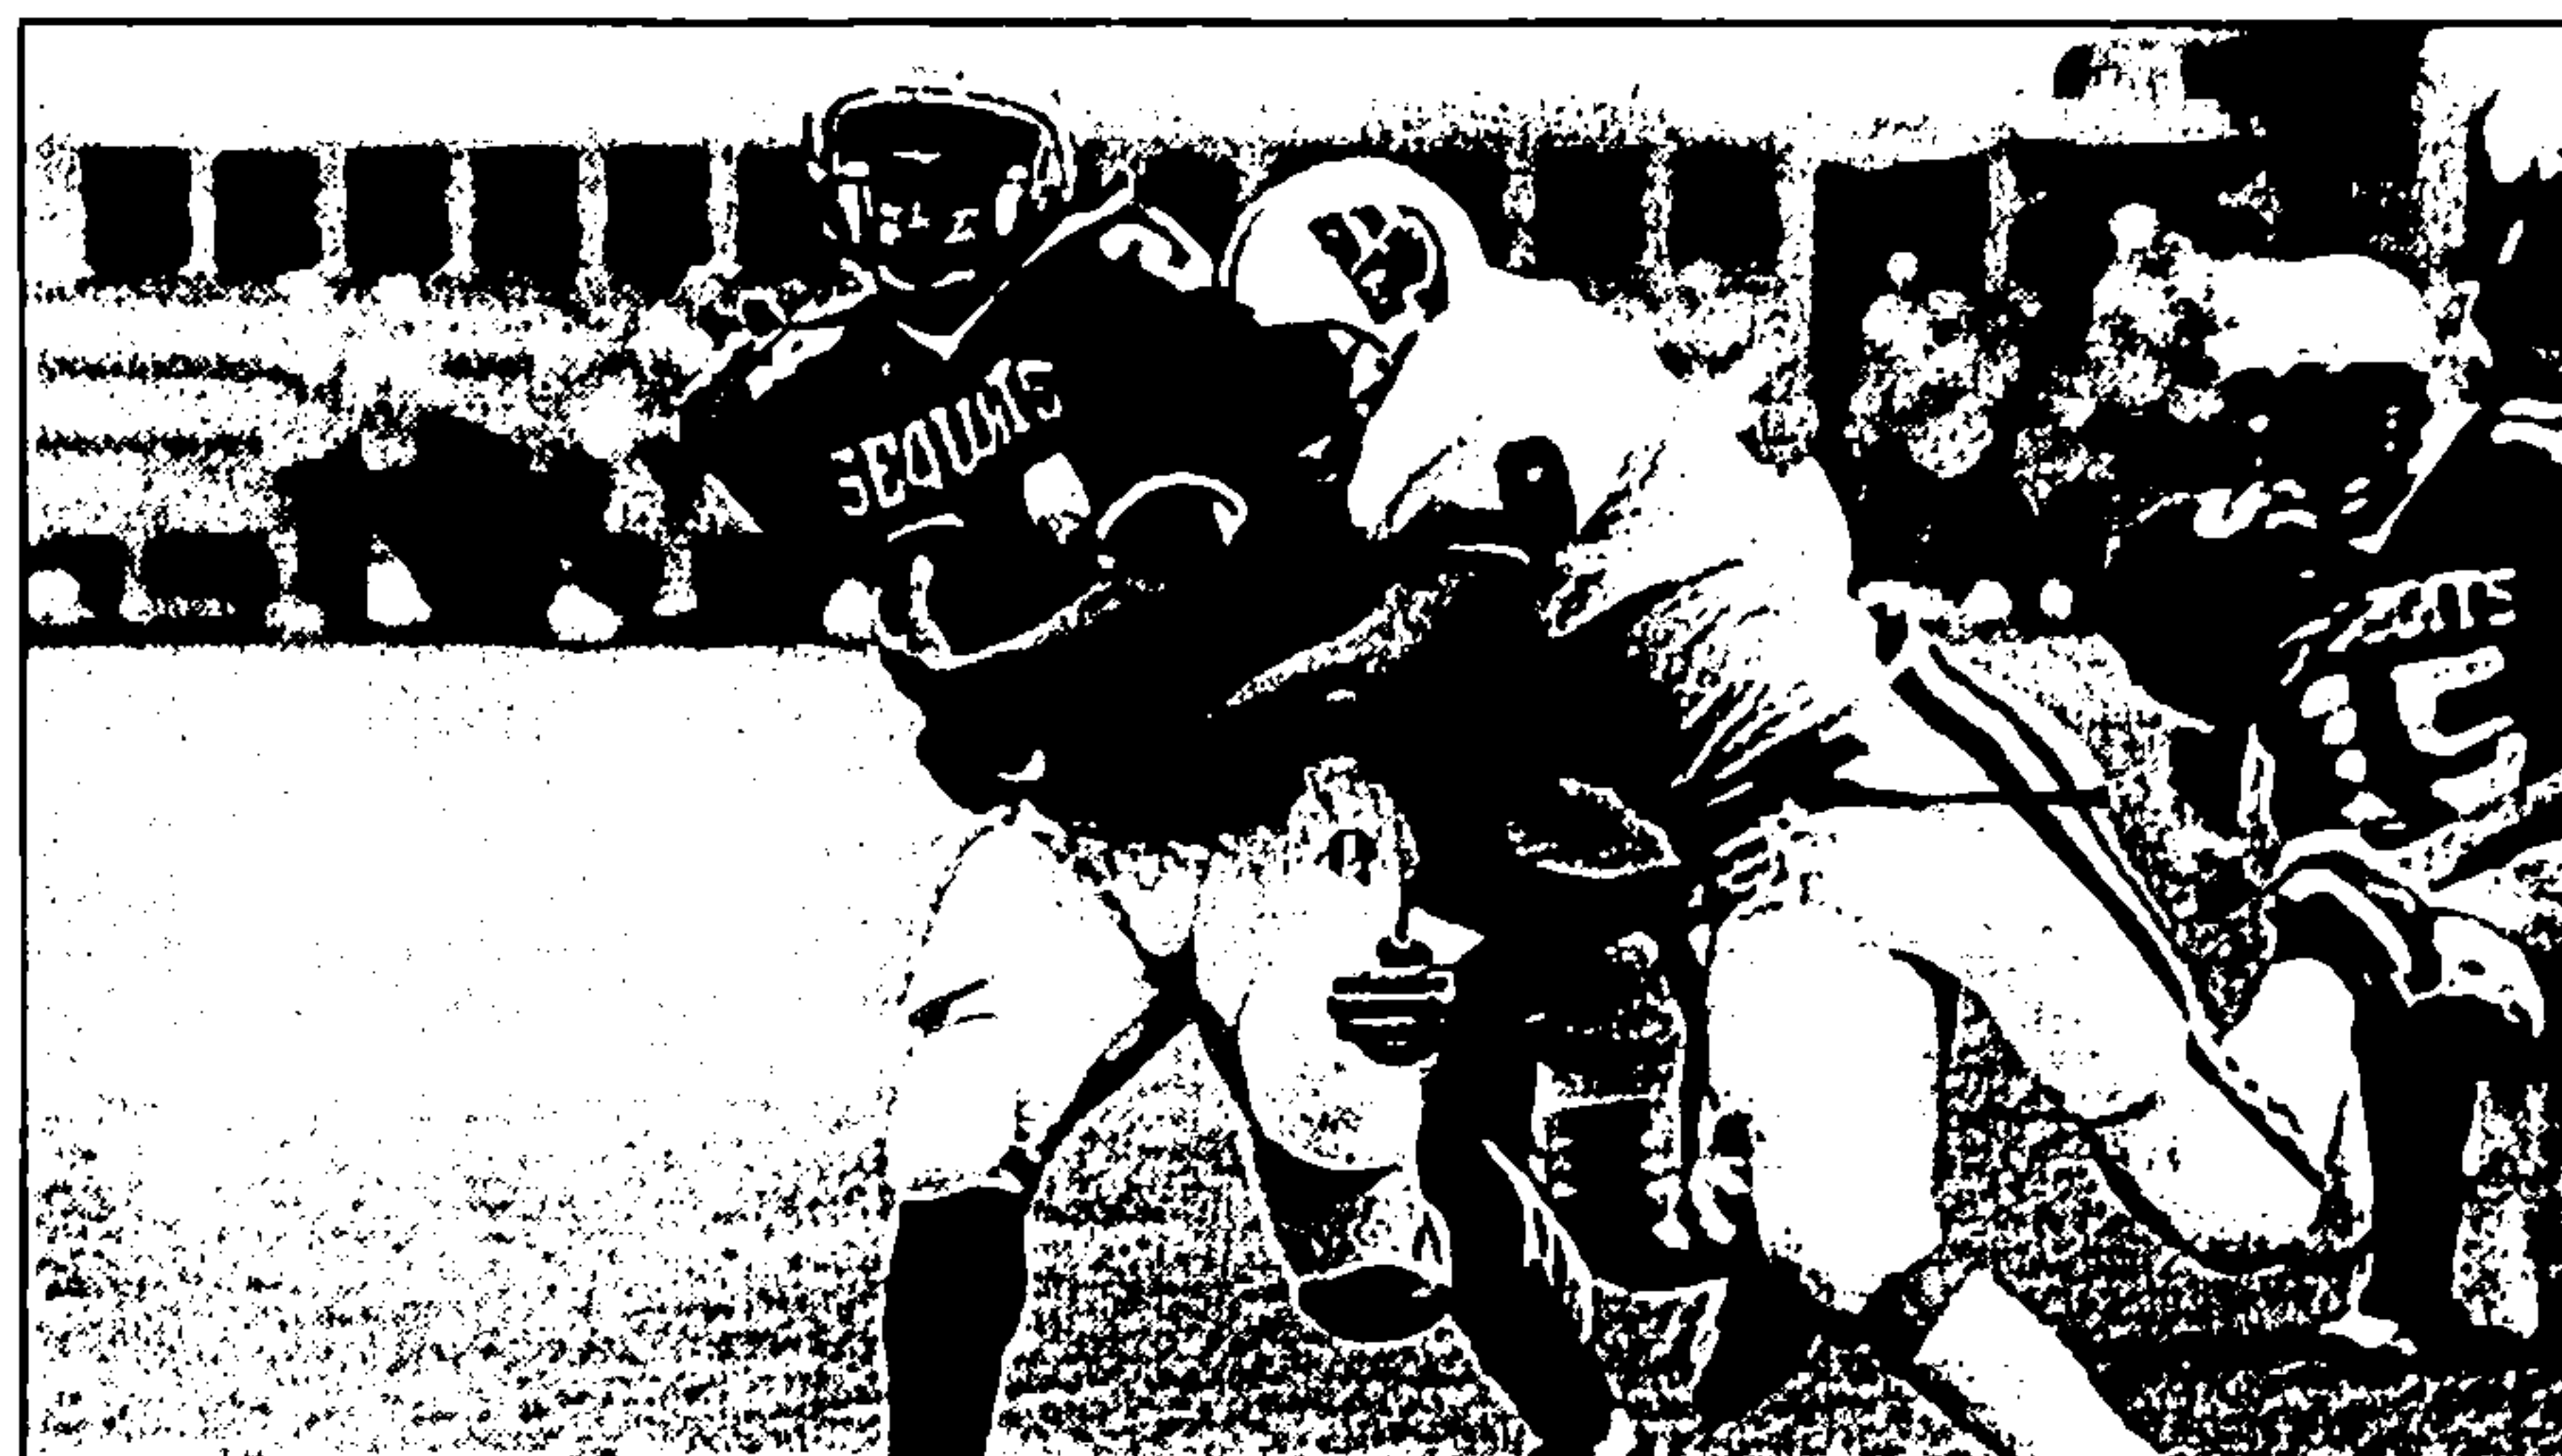

The Sequoits travel to Bensenville to take on the Bison on Aug. 31, at 7:30 p.m.

Meanwhile, Antioch features a pretty big fullback of its own in senior Dan Miodonski (6-2, 200), who rumbled for 107 yards on 27 carries.

Running mate Allen Patin tallied 71 yards on 13 carries, including a 13-yard touchdown run with 38 seconds left in the first quarter to cut the Niles West deficit to 12-7.

While head coach Del Pechauer is focusing more on the run this season, senior signal-caller P.J. Hilbert is capable of throwing anywhere, anytime.

"Last year, we used the pass to set up the run," the coach said. "This season, we want our running game to set up the pass."

Hilbert, who spent time over the summer at football camp in Europe, was 11-of-19 passing for 97 yards.

Jeff Huebner, whose style and play is very similar to the graduated Eric White, caught five balls for 67 yards.

"He definitely has a little of Eric in him," said Pechauer.

It was Hilbert's 24-yard strike to Huebner on a crossing pattern with one minute left in the third quarter that put the hosts ahead for the first time at 14-12.

But just as Antioch seemed to have momentum on its side, big plays for Niles West told the story in the ever-important fourth quarter.

Just two minutes and four plays into the period, Simon dashed 39 yards for a score, putting Niles West up for good at 20-14.

Following a three-and-out series, Simon rumbled 80 yards on the first play of the ensuing Wolves drive to put the game out of reach at 27-14.

Jeremy Will scampered 78 yards for the Wolves final score with 3:53 left in the game.

Sandwiched in between was a 15-yard scoring strike from Hilbert to Huebner.

"They (Niles West) were so jammed up for stopping the run," said Pechauer. "They really cut down our sweep in the second half."

Overall, the defense wasn't bad, with Dan Church's pick and Scott Gehrke, Jeremy Hall and Adam Jordan all registered sacks.

"We have to avoid arm-tackling," the coach added. "Offensively, we did some really good things. Our counters worked well in the first-half."

Wideout Chris Kiddoo is another weapon among the receiving corps. He caught two balls for 17 yards. Gehrke also showed versatility at running back, dashing for 32 yards on four carries.

Heart describes Lady Sequoit netters

By JOE PRUSKI
Correspondent

After compiling a record of 4-11 last year and losing two of its best players to graduation, you would think the Antioch girls tennis team would be ready to give up.

However, that is not the case this year as Antioch finds itself stacked with role players who have the heart to win matches.

Playing No. 1 and 2 singles for Antioch will be Dina Izenstark and Becky Tobias. Both have little or no varsity experience but have shown signs of improvement and maturity over the off-season.

Playing No. 1 doubles will be Jen Richardson and Jen Buhrmester. The No. 2 doubles spot will be occupied by JoEllen Darfler and Ashley Honaker while Jill Owens and Jenna Martin will comprise the No. 3 doubles team.

The most pleasant surprise for head coach Bryan Plinske has been the addition of three transfer students from different areas that have stepped up to fill key gaps on the Antioch team. Jen Buhrmester from Grayslake, Ashley Honaker from Ohio, and Jenna Martin from Waukegan have all taken spots on the three doubles teams.

Plinske sights that a major plus for the team is how solid all the players are.

"There isn't a big difference between any players out there, he said. "When one player isn't clicking, the others can collectively make up for it. We're definitely looking to improve on the record from last year."

Antioch has already made it halfway to that goal by defeating Wilmet and Zion-Benton in the early-going. Their lone loss came in the form of a 0-5 decision against Carmel.

"The thing I'm most impressed by is their never-say-die attitude, and that they always enjoy their time on the court," said Plinske.

Talent-wise, Plinske isn't disappointed either, believing that his team can stay competitive with any team in the conference this year.

"If we're firing on all cylinders we're going to surprise a lot of teams, we don't give up," he said. "This team has heart, you just can't coach that. This could be one of those special seasons."

Sequoit volleyball rebuilding

By JOE PRUSKI
Correspondent

After a near .500 campaign last year, Antioch varsity girl's volleyball will look to jump a few spots in the conference as it heads into the new season.

The Sequoits lost seven varsity members to form last year's squad to graduation, including Emily Niles, Meghan Flood, Jamie Knuth, Carrie Spiegel, Lauren Reynolds, Kelly Gofron and Katianna Pechauer.

Returning for Antioch will be Erica Brown, Meredith Nelson, Lindsey Gruber, and Lisa Chudd, who is coming off of a successful ACL surgery.

What the team lacks inside will be made up with their strong defense and efficient serving. Head coach Gwen Varney is looking for a serving percentage of around 90 percent.

"I think we have to work to see improvement," said Varney. "We're going to improve a lot as the season goes on and we have to keep up our serving."

The team will be greeted by a strong cast of juniors who all played significant roles in helping the sophomore team achieve a record of 16-5 last season.

Varney thinks that of the teams in the conference, Antioch was hit the hardest by graduation. Teams such as Mundelein, Stevenson, Libertyville, Lake Forest, and Warren look to be the toughest in the NSC Lake division.

Overall, Varney sees the team as an inexperienced group of good athletes who should excel defensively as the year goes on.

"People have been working hard and the kids get along well," she said. "We should be in for a good season."

Financial networks merge

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

In the world of electronic banking, the ultimate goal is convenience, and the merger of Cash, MAC and STAR station networks make the country's largest PIN-secured (personal identification number) debit network. "We are very enthusiastic about the benefits that the STAR Network will bring to our customers," said Karen Kubin, marketing officer for First National Bank-Employee Owned (FNBE). "The added ATM and POS coverage and associated convenience of the STAR Network will allow our card holders to securely access their accounts across the county."

Part of the Cash Station network, FNBE will be changing its Cash Station signage over to STAR over the next few months. Any customer who currently has a FNBE ATM or debit card can begin using any STAR or MAC machine immediately. FNBE ATMs are located at 485 Lake St., Antioch, and 36044 N. Brookside Dr., Gurnee.

According to Kubin, the STAR Network is the nation's leading electronic payments network and an expert in secure, real-time electronic transactions.

For more information about FNBE or its products and services, call 838-2265 or access the web site at www.fnbeo.com.

No promise of carpool lot

By JULIE MURPHY
Staff Reporter

As one of his last duties, former community development director Claude LeMere put together a report for the board of directors of the Village of Antioch indicating that no other municipalities have a designated carpooling lot.

Trustee Larry Hanson said Antioch has a comprehensive parking plan in place and that those who are carpooling could use the paid municipal lot near the Metra station to serve their needs.

"I don't think we should not do it just because other communities do not," said Trustee Dorothy Larson. "It doesn't have to be 100 spaces in our prime area."

Hanson contended that the Metra lot is a carpooling lot of sorts. "We feel the people who take the train are doing that," he said. "The are carpooling, but on the rail. We have an area open for them (those who asked the village to establish a carpool lot), even though they may not want it."

"If they all live in the municipality, it's not that big of a deal for them to pick each other up," he added.

Trustee Scott Pierce motioned to have Pace look into establishing a park-and-ride area within Antioch.

Antioch Township, Lake Villa Township and Antioch Community High School Dist. 117 (ACHS), officially began construction of a facility (to be jointly funded and used) with a ceremonial groundbreaking held on Aug. 24.

The location is on the north end of the site where a second high school is being constructed by ACHS on the northeast corner of Deep Lake and Grass Lake roads. The school district is providing about two acres of land for the facility and will extend the utilities from the second high school to the center.

Rep. Tim Osmond (R-Antioch) secured $900,000 in funding through the Illinois First Program earmarked for Antioch and Lake Villa townships to assist with the construction of the building. Antioch Township has plans to sell its current building and use the proceeds to offset some of the construction costs of the center. Lake Villa will also add to the kitty.

"I'm impressed with the willingness of the school district to provide land to the project and to extend utilities from the second high school in the district for the center," said Osmond. "I'm impressed with the willingness of both Antioch Township and Lake Villa Township to direct Illinois First dollars earmarked for them to the facility, and I'm impressed with the way the three have worked together to make the center a reality."

When complete, the center will house the administrative offices for ACHS and the Antioch Township offices. There will be a large area for senior citizen and community programs, and it will be the site for the Meals on Wheels program for Northwest Lake County, though the Antioch Senior Center will still operate the Meals on Wheels program for Antioch.

"The area of the property where the center will be located was originally scheduled to be developed as a recreation area for both the school and the community," said Dennis Hockney, superintendent of ACHS. "When the idea of a partnership was first proposed by Rep. Osmond, the district offered to provide the property, and the townships indicated a willingness to share Illinois First funds. The fact that we have a positive relationship among the three of us was particularly helpful."

Antioch Township Supervisor Steve Smouse added, "It's rewarding to be part of a group that has planned a building that will serve both the high school, the township and the senior citizens of the area."

Dan Venturi, Lake Villa Township supervisor said the township needed fields for athletic programs and space for senior citizen programs.

"When the high school showed the township officials its tentative site plan for the second high school in the district and the number of fields that would be available for use by Lake Villa Township groups, it was easy to become a partner."

"The three (entities) have worked with the architect and the construction manager as well as each other. They have developed a plan that addresses the needs of not only the school and townships, but also for the citizens of the area, especially seniors," said Osmond. "Now that plans are finalized, construction can begin."

Permits for the construction of the center hit a snag earlier this year as the result of a U.S. Supreme Court ruling about the management of wetlands, and specifically, which ones fall under the jurisdiction of the U.S. Army Corp of Engineers.

According to Supt. Dennis Hockney, the snag has been cleared and the board of education for Antioch Community High School Dist. 117 (ACHS) authorized entering into an agreement with Ipsen Development to grade two acres of wetlands at a cost of $108,150 in preparation for the new high school.

Completion of the project is slated for late spring 2002.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Antioch Jr. Miss time has come

Since the age of 6, I have done pageants. It wasn't my mom forcing me to them; it was I forcing my mom to let me do them. My mother wasn't sure if I should do them because she doesn't want me to do pageants that are based on looks because that is not important, but what is important is inner beauty.

So she decided that I could do Little Miss Antioch, I tried and I lost but I didn't really care. I just said there is always next year and that has been my motto ever since.

After outgrowing Little Miss Antioch, I found a pageant. It was called Northern Illinois Scholarship Pageant. This pageant was wonderful because it requires community service (one year alone I did 75 community events somewhere else). I have been doing that for three years now, but am also able to do Jr. Miss Antioch. But I have only one problem. That problem is that our town of Antioch does not have a Jr. Miss.

So I decided I would do the At Large Pageant. That night came and seven out of nine girls were from Antioch. But Antioch still does not want to have a Jr. Miss. I think that it kind of gives you a clue that if seven out of nine girls were from Antioch, that you need to get a Jr. Miss.

A mom offered to pay for a crown and banner every year but our town still did not want one. I am a Queen of Illinois under a different pageant system and have asked to help out but was told no and to never wear my crown and banner up town.

The pageant group Northern Illinois asked to help out at Halloween Howl a year ago and we were just going to wear our pageant shirts but we couldn't. I really think IT IS TIME that Antioch should have a Jr. Miss pageant and require all contestants to do five community service events during the year and I know a lot of other people who agree, but that is only our opinion.

A venerated social service institution hopes to restore a local historical landmark.

Sometimes, the progressive thing to do requires looking back, rather than ahead. Sometimes, the best way to do a thing is to undo it.

At a time when the village of Lake Villa, a small community of about 6,000 people, is celebrating its centennial, local attention is focused on the two-fold process of moving efficiently into the future while preserving the treasures of the past.

In July, as part of that process, the village purchased a 90-acre parcel, originally known as Longwood Farm, which includes a mansion, constructed in 1911, by Edward John Lehmann, son of Chicago's Fair Store founder Ernst Johann Lehmann.

Commonly referred to as "the Lehmann mansion," the home had fallen into disrepair after the death of Lehmann's widow, in 1970.

While the village now faces the task of preserving what remains of that structure, directly to the south of it lies another Lehmann mansion—one which may be more historically and architecturally significant than Longwood Farm.

It is a stucco Italianate mansion, occupied since 1948 by the Central Baptist Children's Home (CBCH), a social service organization in existence for almost as long as the mansion itself.

In the melding of two histories, one might find the future of this landmark.

In 1888, Ernst J. Lehmann, known as "the merchant prince of State Street," purchased the 33-acre Stewart Farm, renamed Stanwood, and on the crest of its hill, built an exquisite summer retreat.

By BRENDA BALIN-BEITSCHER
Staff Reporter

Ernst and his wife Augusta moved into the home, which featured reflecting pools, gardens, a carriage house and an indoor pool.

The merchant prince did not live in the house for long. In 1890, his wife, Augusta, had him committed to a mental institution in White Plains, New York. He died in 1900.

Lehmann's widow continued to live in the mansion until her death in 1918, when the property passed into the hands of daughter Augusta E., who lived at the summer villa until her death in 1942.

The summer home briefly was in the hands of the Peacock Camp for Crippled Children, a pet project of the Lehmann's first-born daughter, Emelie, who married Charles Peacock, scion of the C.D. Peacock Jewelers family.

In 1948, the stately residence began a new life, as the Peacock Camp sold the building and grounds to the Central Baptist Children's Home for the sum of $65,000.

In an effort to economically accommodate 50 children, many features of the home were "remodeled."

The children's bedrooms were on the second floor of what was first called the Great House, and later renamed Grace Hastings Richardson House.

As the organization grew, more buildings were constructed on the grounds. Needs changed, and the mansion became home for CBCH administration.

The greatest changes to the structure were probably made in the 1960s and '70s, according to Joyce Heneberry, CBCH Marketing and Volunteer Coordinator.

When the upper story of the villa was no longer used as bedrooms, offices were constructed.

Plasterboard walls were installed where none had been before.

An elegantly sweeping staircase sets off the main entry hall. At the top of the staircase, a carved railing surrounds the oval opening. The curved gallery formed by that railing is now abruptly cut off by a flat white wall.

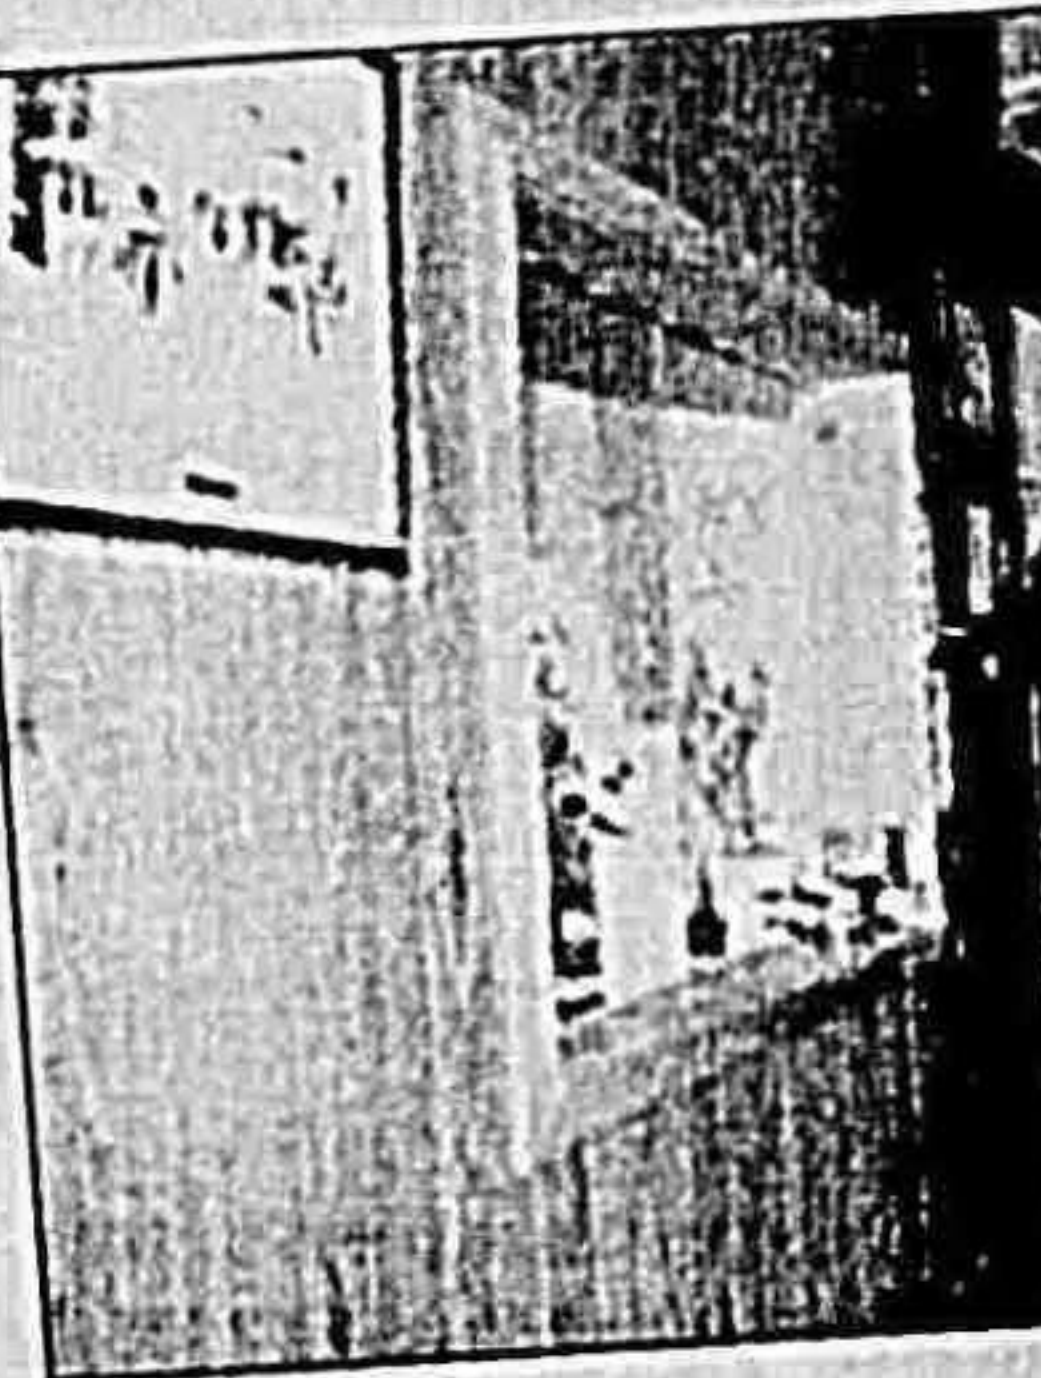

This is not the worst of the architectural outrages.

Throughout the building there are numerous French doors, originally surmounted with fan-shaped transoms.

Many of these Palladium doors have been truncated. Some have had the arches filled in with flat boards to allow them to serve as mounts for through-the-wall air conditioners.

The front doors, originally multi-paned glass, were removed and replaced with a single flat wooden door and plywood surround.

Above the front door, there is a balcony with a doorway set into a filled-in arch. In photos of the original structure, it is apparent that the arch was open, and the actual entrance to the up-

Parquet wood floors were covered with carpeting. Walls with delicate molding were covered with dark, flat wood paneling. Ceilings with elegantly sculpted plaster beams were covered by dropped acoustic tile. Carved mahogany doorframes were painted over. Doorways and arches were eradicated with wallboard, while new ones were created in walls where there had been none before. Outdoors, the grounds had not fared much better.

A glass doored pavilion, which had housed an in-ground pool, was converted to a gymnasium for the orphans. In 1990, a fire destroyed the building.

The reflecting pool behind the former Great House had been filled in with dirt, and was sprouting random vegetation.

A slate pathway surrounding the house had been covered over with earth.

In short, although the building remained basically sound

Dixieland music Barbary Coast style

it out!

The Barbary Coast Dixieland Band brings its unique style of jazz to St. James Lutheran Church, 1380 N. Waukegan Rd. in Lake Forest, for two appearances—a concert on Saturday, Sept. 8 at 7 p.m. and during the 9:30 a.m. worship service on Sunday, Sept. 9.

The six members of the band are Twin Cities musicians who started playing together in 1967. A huge success, the band played to standing room only crowds for years. In 1990, Barbary Coast was invited to join the mayor of St. Paul on a Dixieland goodwill tour of Japan. They were recently elected to the Minnesota Music Hall of Fame and will be inducted on Nov. 2 in New Ulm, Minn.

Barbary Coast led its first worship service in 1984, when band member Tom Andrews asked the band to play for a service at his church. All six members are Lutheran, and soon the band had performed at the churches of each of its members. The "church gigs" took off from there. Last year, Barbary Coast performed 125 times.

"This is absolutely not a concert—church members sing and participate. They're in their worship service and we're just helping lead it," explains member Dick Ramberg.

Other band members include Dick Petersen, Bill Butler, Russ Peterson and Steve Pikal. There is no charge for the Saturday evening concert; a freewill offering will be accepted. For more information or to make reservations, call St. James at 234-4859.

Dells never closes, it's just not as crowded

By MARC JENKINS
Staff Reporter

Here's a news flash for those looking for a weekend getaway after Labor Day: Wisconsin Dells is still open, even the water parks—you just have to move indoors.

Since the 1950s, the Dells, an 18-mile scenic wonderland in south-central Wisconsin, has been one of the state's top tourist draws for residents of surrounding states.

Although the bulk of visitors come to the Dells, about a three-hour drive from Lake County, between Memorial Day and Labor Day, there are still many things to do offseason.

"More than 80 percent of hotels, camping and attractions do stay open between September and April," Bonnie Sierlecki, a Dells spokesperson, said.

Sierlecki said that for the most part, only the outdoor water parks, go-kart tracks and other outdoor-based activities are the only places that are not open in the offseason.

Nearly 1.4 million visitors came to the Dells in the summer season, while 1.1 million continued to visit between September and April.

The transformation from a summer-only destination to a year-round hot spot started 12 years ago with the construction of the Polynesian Resort, first to combine indoor and outdoor water parks on one site in 1989.

Now the Dells is home to 17 different indoor water parks, and has been recognized by the World Water Park Association as the world's leading community for excellence in year-round indoor-outdoor water leisure.

Since 1996, many new attractions have opened, fine dining restaurants have geared themselves towards upscale tourists.

The Wollersheim Winery, which first planted vineyards in the 1840s, is one of those, a 23-acre vineyard overlooking the Wisconsin River and conducts year-round tours. Guides share the winery's history, telling how European vintners selected the winery, a national historic site, more than 150 years ago.

On Oct. 6-7, it will host a Grape Stomp Festival, with grape stomping and spitting contests, a cork toss and wine tasting all for $1. Call 800-847-9463 for more information.

At Mirror Lake, the Seth Peterson Cottage, a Frank Lloyd Wright creation can be rented for a private stay, the only rentable Wright home in existence.

Mainstays like Ripley's Believe it or Not! Museum and Circus World are open with new exhibits in addition to the Rick Wilcox Magic Theater, which opened in 1999.

The Dells is hosting numerous festivals and fairs in the coming months. Those include the annual Dells Polish Fest, from Sept. 7-9, the Autumn Harvest Fest, on Oct. 20-21, and a Scrabble Tournament from Oct. 12-14.

weekend diversions

Need a short break for the upcoming holiday weekend, but don't want to use a lot of gas or cash? The Wisconsin Dells, Garfield Farm Museum and Chicago Great Western Train Depot Museum offer family fun within a day's drive of Lake County.
—Photos by Marc Jenkins

Hobo hap'nin' time

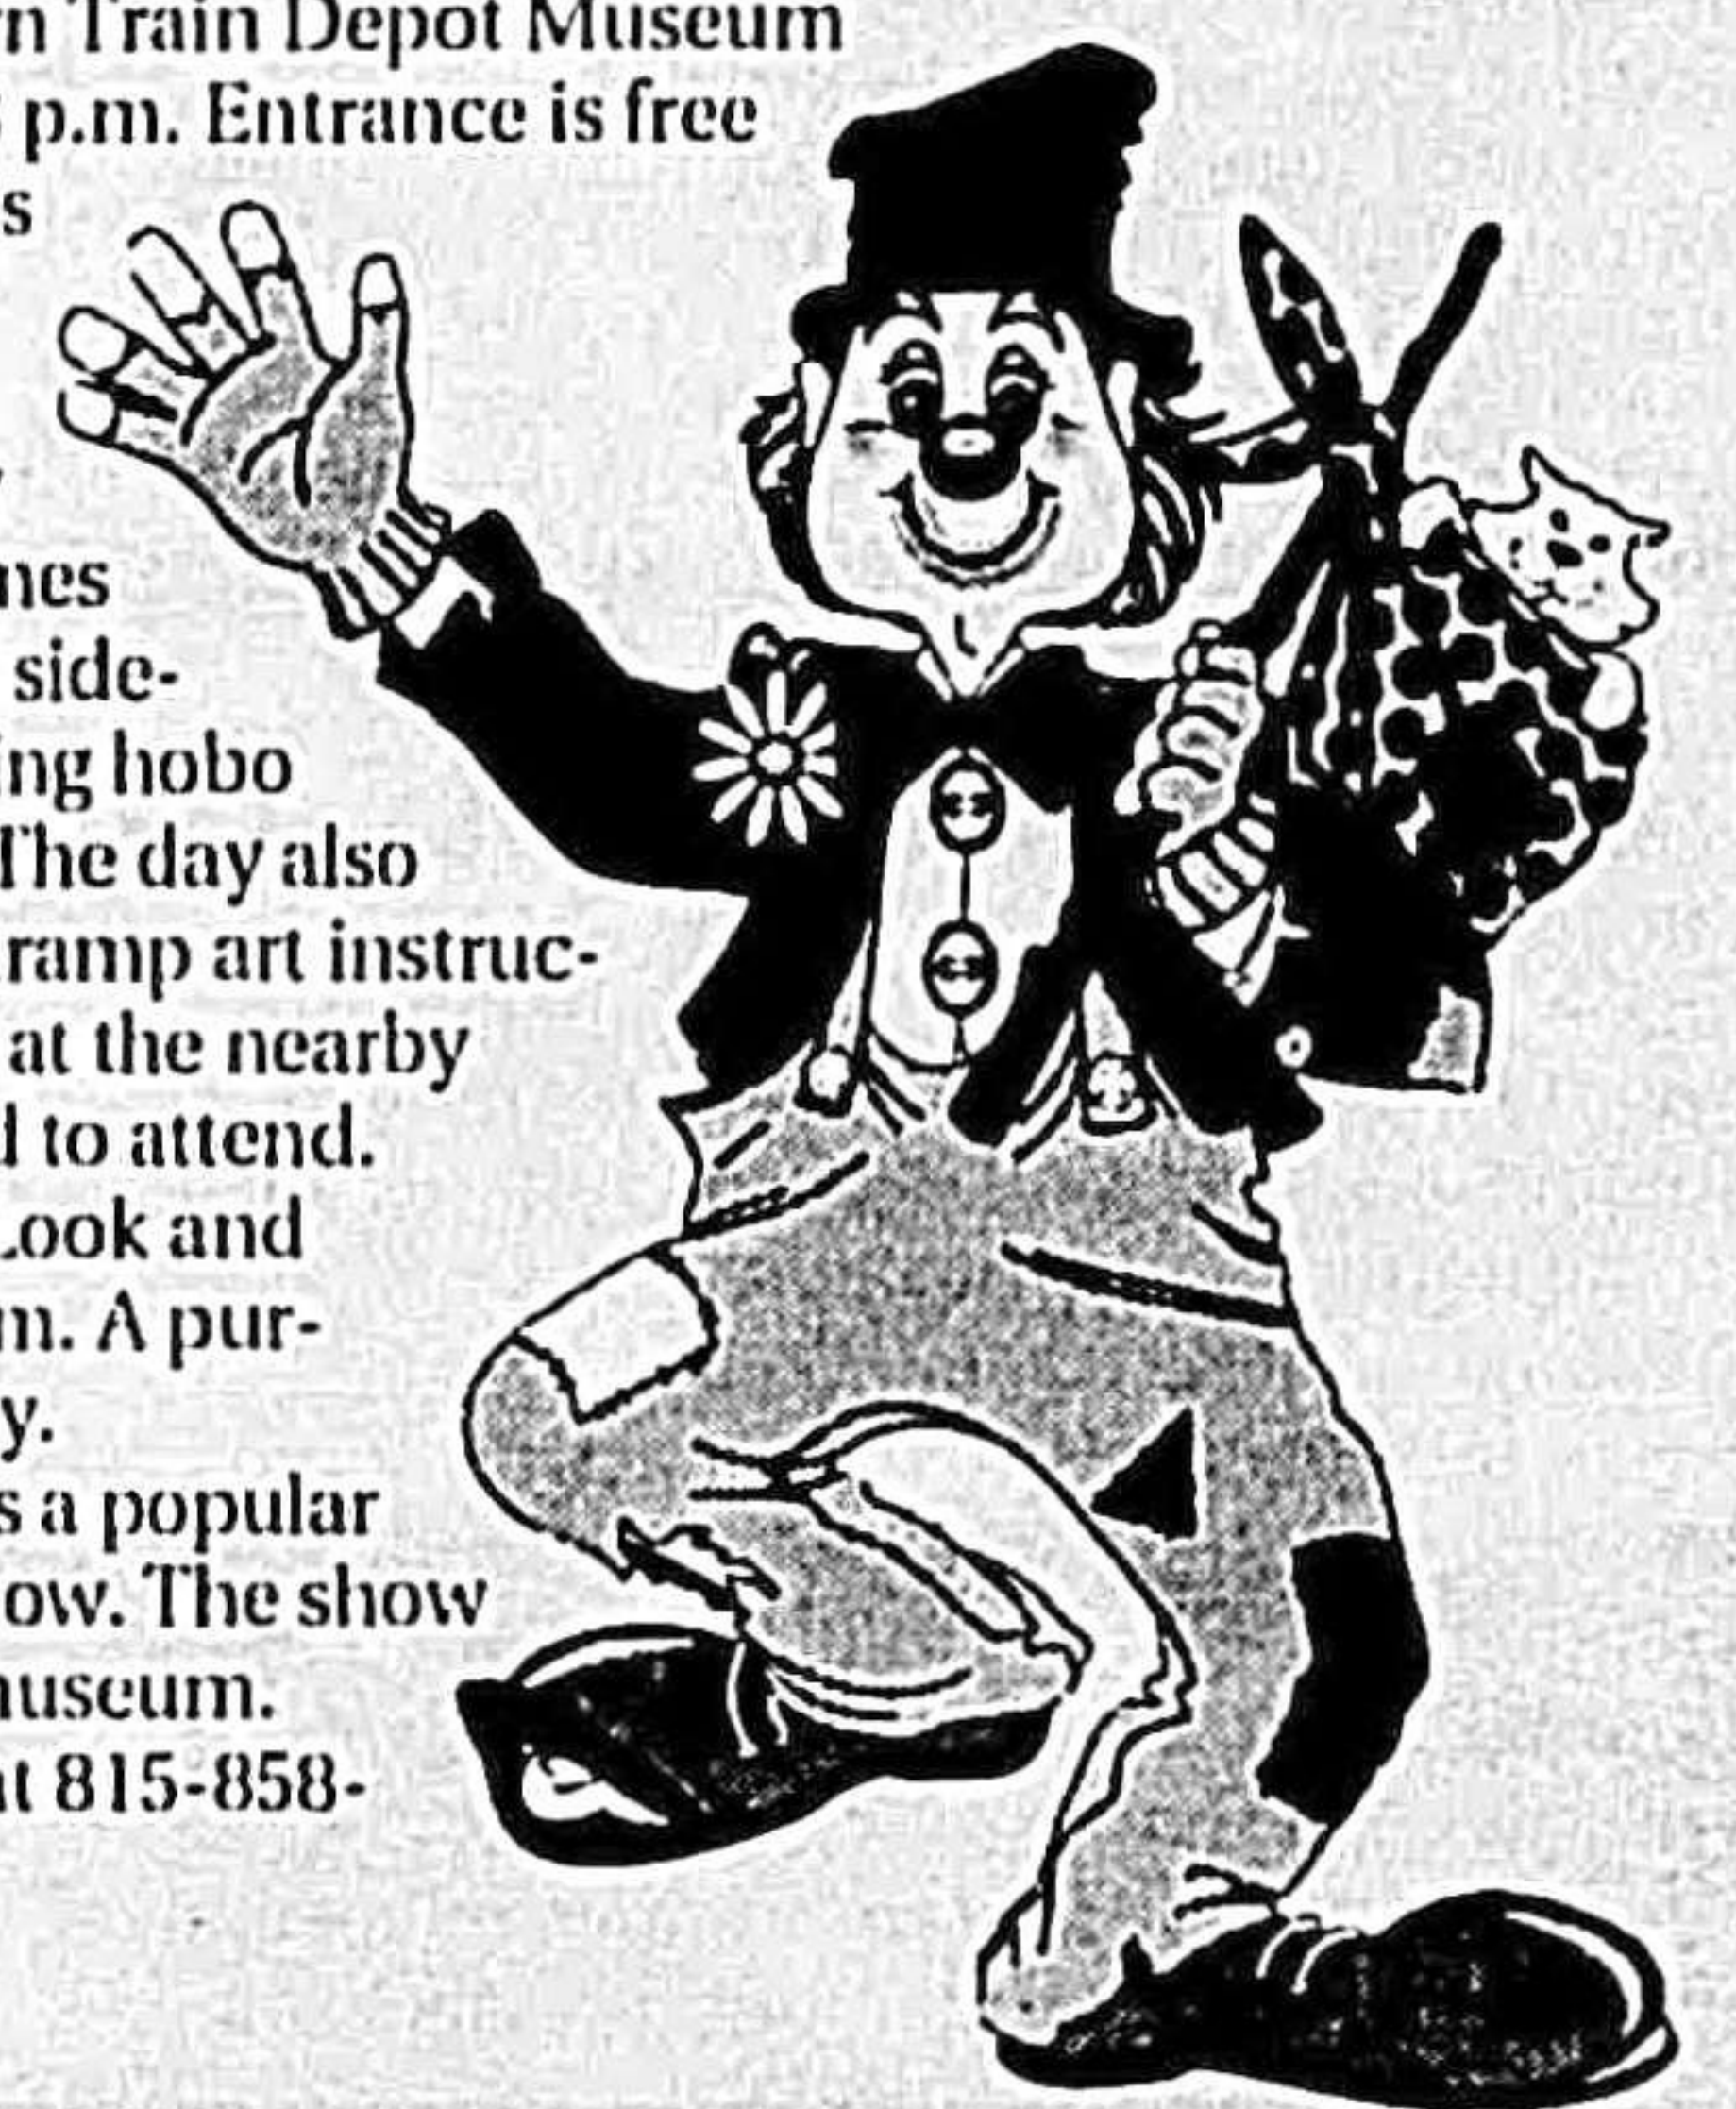

Head for the hills of Elizabeth and Jo Daviess County, tucked away in the northwest corner of Illinois on Rte. 20 and join the fun at the Hobo Hap'nin' at the Chicago Great Western Train Depot Museum on Saturday, Sept. 8 from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Entrance is free and there are plenty of things to do. The event is sponsored by the Elizabeth Chamber of Commerce.

Music and entertainment will be provided by local and guest artists and there will be hobo games for kids and adults. A hobo costume contest and side-walk parade begins at 5 p.m. Lots of food, featuring hobo stew, and refreshments will be available all day. The day also includes a railroad memorabilia show and sale, tramp art instruction, a silent auction and a special encampment at the nearby Apple River Fort. Present day hobos are expected to attend.

An original Elizabethan comedy skit, "Stop, Look and Listen," will be presented by local actors at 2 p.m. A purchase of a bandanna will be entrance to the play.

The Railroad Memorabilia Show and Sale was a popular attraction last year and promises to be a great show. The show will take place in the big tent next to the depot museum.

For more information, call Jerry Bausman at 815-858-2002 or visit the web site at www.elizabeth-il.com.

'Bay Wolf' cookbook taps into seasonal favorites

California restaurateur Michael Wild's passion for food is evident from the very first page of his book, "Bay Wolf Restaurant Cookbook" (Ten Speed Press, 2001, 240 pages).

Bay Wolf, the restaurant he founded in 1975, continues to thrive on the premise of providing elegant ambiance, imaginative, tasty food and friendly, professional service.

The colorful volume, full of handsome photos, tracks chef Lauren Lyle's recipes month by month. It features cassoulet in January, crab cakes in February, celery root and celery heart salad in March, and so on. We already have dog-eared pages highlighting roast salmon with beet vinaigrette, carrot soup with Chioggia beets and hazelnut-raisin biscotti.

But for summer, "the peak experience," who could resist the simple-yet-refreshing Watermelon Ice with Mint Sorbet? This dynamic duo, served with shortbread, makes an ideal summertime dessert.

COOKING by the BOOK

Tom Witom

Watermelon Ice with Mint Sorbet

Mint Sorbet

2 cups sugar
2 cups water
3 large bunches mint

Watermelon Ice

3 lbs. watermelon, peeled, seeds removed and diced
1/2 cup sugar
1 tbl. dry marsala

To prepare mint sorbet: place the sugar and water in a saucepan and bring to a boil. add the mint and let steep for 20-minutes. Remove and discard the mint. Place in the refrigerator to cool completely. Freeze in an ice cream freezer according to the manufacturer's instructions.

To prepare the watermelon ice: place the watermelon in a blender and purée. Strain through a fine strainer. Add the sugar and marsala. Pour into a pan and freeze. When frozen, chop into fine chips with a blunt pastry scraper. Do not use a sharp knife. This takes some muscle.

To serve: place some of the chipped ice in each bowl and top with two scoops of sorbet. Makes 1 1/2 quarts sorbet and 2 cups ice.

because of constant maintenance during its habitation, it had been "remuddled" to the point of nearly losing its architectural identity. Now, for the good news.

During the past few years, thanks to community volunteers, some of the architectural details of the exterior have been uncovered, and are in the process of restoration.

Several weekends each year, Eagle Scouts work on projects to improve and restore the landscape of the estate.

Three years ago, scouts uncovered the slate path behind the house. This summer, other scouts, in concert with the Lake Villa-Lindenhurst Garden Club, have worked to restore the reflecting pool in the rear garden.

Thus far, they have removed the earth from the basin and laid in a plastic liner. Restoration of the slate path may be temporarily disrupted while a pump is installed to provide aeration to the decorative pond.

"The amazing thing is that this building has endured so much," said Heneberry. She noted that many of the original architectural details are still intact.

"Look at those urns!" she exclaimed, indicating masonry decorations on the upper corners of the house.

She pointed out the ironwork balconies, crafted in the Italian-influenced style so popular among the very wealthy at the turn of the last century, still in good condition. Most of the home's numerous French doors, which open onto terraces or balconies, remain operational.

The original glass front doors may be in storage in the basement, according to Lyle Haerle, facilities director.

Revealing that under the wall-to-wall carpeting on the ground floor there are black marble floors, Haerle expressed his wish to bring the restoration of the grounds indoors as well.

The cost of the restoration is the single ruling factor in its course.

As a non-profit concern, CBCH must use its operating budget of $30 million to serve its programs, which include abuse-prevention, foster care, residential and adoption services.

"Lake Villa's Centennial has stirred up interest in preserving our past," Heneberry observed.

The interest has created a small core of volunteer preservationists.

Plans are afoot to continue to restore the original dining room, with an eye to perhaps renting out the space for corporate use.

Other possible sources for restoration funds are commercial development of the property frontage on Rte. 83, private donations and public grants.

"This beautiful campus should be seen as an asset, not a drain," said Heneberry.

At present, the renovation proceeds on an item-by-item basis, with an eye towards replacing worn and damaged features in a manner consistent with the original aesthetics.

As CBCH looks ahead into the 21st century in providing progressive service to the children of Illinois, one eye rests on the 19th century, and the refined life that once graced the shores of Deep Lake.

'Jade Scorpion' cursed by mediocrity

Woody isn't fun anymore. First, Woody was fun. Then, he was fun and he was deep. Then there was a period of time when Woody wasn't fun, but at least he was deep. Woody Allen's latest effort as writer/director/actor, "The Curse of the Jade Scorpion," is neither fun, nor deep.

The premise was promising, but the execution made me wonder if Allen wasn't farming out his writing to a lesser-talented fan.

The plot is simple enough, yet with adequate room for twists that should be more fun than they are. Set in the 1940's, it appears to be attempting to satirize the mystery-comedy genre. It could have gone either way—poking fun at film noir detective dramas, or mimicking screwball romances—but it never committed to one or the other, let alone both.

The characters are right out of the set pieces of the era. An efficiency expert, Betty Ann Fitzgerald (Helen Hunt), comes to the insurance company where C.W. Briggs (Woody Allen) has reigned as the firm's top investigator. Betty Ann seems hell-bent on getting C.W. out of the company. Allen tests our credulity by presenting Briggs as a smarmy womanizer.

movie review

The setup is perfect for a take off on the kind of "independent woman meets old fashioned man" scenario, complete with sparks and eventual fire, which was a hallmark of many films in this genre. But Hunt and Allen are no Hepburn and Tracy, and the sparks never materialize.

Woody Allen and Helen Hunt fall under David Ogden Stiers' spell in "The Curse of the Jade Scorpion," released by Dreamworks.

Betty Ann's independent streak is too contemporary to fit the time, and yet, inexplicably, when her employer and married lover (Dan Aykroyd) hesitates to leave his wife, she attempts suicide.

Evil hypnotist, Voltan (David Ogden Stiers), puts Betty Ann and C.W. into a trance, suggesting that the couple are now deeply in love. He brings them out of their dream state, back to their regular routine of backbiting and not-so-funny barbs. (Betty Ann's "stinging" attacks on C.W. seem to consist of describing terrible ways he might die.)

Later, Voltan uses the trigger words "Constantinople" and "Madagascar" to manipulate the pair into separate acts of jewel thievery. C.W. is the prime suspect, and the bulk of the film is devoted to his efforts to find "the real thief" as his incidental romance develops.

Charlize Theron, as a nymphomaniac socialite, has the most nearly over-the-top character, playing it like a cross between Lauren Bacall on acid and a drag queen. Again, the premise that this gorgeous woman would be in hot pursuit of the man Betty Ann accurately describes as "mousy, myopic and smarmy" is hard to swallow.

Allen fails to take the chance to really have fun with the character of Voltan. The evil is never quite evil enough, and the character seems to exist only as a device to advance the plot. He has no life of his own.

While opportunities abound for Allen to shine with his trademark one-liners, they are few and far between. Or perhaps I am spoiled by memories of such truly hysteria-inspiring past films as "Bananas" and "What's Up, Tiger Lily?" There is no depth of character or vision.

When Allen went through his not-funny introspective period, the complexity of the characters and their lives at least gave us some thing to think about. I was surprised that the film was shot in color, as Allen has not hesitated to use black-and-white photography in the past ("Manhattan") to good effect. The opening scenes appeared underexposed and reddish. I wondered if the idea was to make it look like an early color film that had deteriorated with age.

It was irritating to look at. However, the very next scene and all others that followed were in vivid full color. The sets were gorgeous, and full of authentic detail. The hairstyles and costumes left something to be desired in that regard. The one-liners did manage to squeeze a few laughs out of me, but I have never laughed so little at an alleged comedy, let alone one by an acknowledged past master.

Emphasis on past. For making me nostalgic about Allen's own work, I give this film 2-1/2 popcorn boxes. Note to Woody: go see your own early movies.

'Jay and Silent Bob' provide big laughs

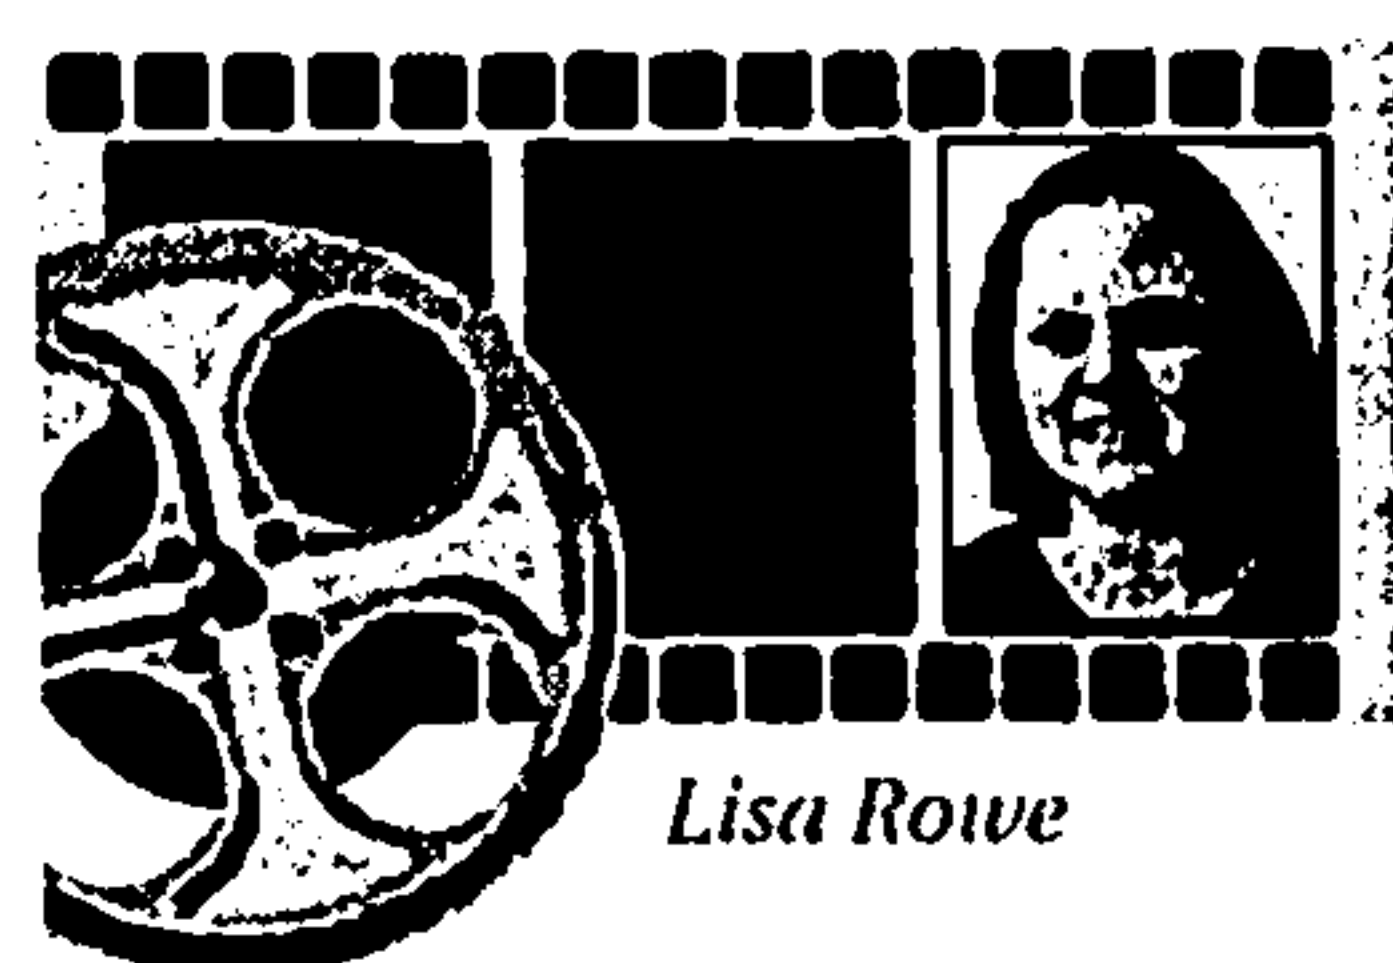

Director Kevin Smith certainly wanted his characters Jay and Silent Bob to go out with a bang in their final movie.

Some people are disappointed that Smith, who also plays Silent Bob, has chosen to stop making movies including the wildly popular duo.

Jay, played by Jason Mewes, and Silent Bob have also played roles in "Clerks," "Mall Rats," "Chasing Amy" and "Dogma." Their imaginative and sometimes crude humor adds a touch of insanity to their new film.

Although "Jay and Silent Bob Strike Back" is down-right hilarious, most of the comedy is based on references to previous films directed by Smith. Because this is the fifth film in the loosely structured series, I strongly suggest viewing the four films I mentioned, in that order, before seeing

movie review

their latest hit.

Now for the nitty-gritty breakdown. For those of you who are easily offended by drug references, sexual and body humor, this is not the movie for you.

The plot revolves around a movie that is being made about Bluntman and Chronic, originally a comic based on Jay and Silent Bob, created by Holden McNeil, played by Ben Affleck, and Banky Edwards, played by Jason Lee.

Characters Jay and Silent Bob hang out with Ben Affleck's character Holden McNeil in "Jay and Silent Bob Strike Back."

Jay and Silent Bob learn that web surfers around the world are bad-mouthing the comic and movie that is going to be produced.

They also learn they haven't received any royalty checks for the comic or the movie.

To save their pride, even though McNeil tries to convince them otherwise, the duo sets out to Hollywood to stop the movie's production.

While they try hitchhiking from New Jersey to Hollywood, they encounter a wide variety of people, from strange characters, such as George Carlin as a hitchhiker, to a quartet of beautiful women stealing diamonds in black leather body suits.

Jay and Silent Bob even end up with an orangutan, who saves their hides in a few tight situations. Needless to say this addition to the group also makes the movie very humorous as it progresses.

Overall, the message of friendship is clear. The movie shows that they stick together through any situation, no matter how ridiculous or dangerous it might be.

For parents taking their children to this movie, be strongly cautioned. The MPAA has rated this movie 'R' which should be strictly enforced.

As one of Smith's great films, an excellent cast of actors, great plot and non-stop laughs, this movie gets four popcorn boxes.

HOROSCOPE

Aries - March 21/April 20

You have to be strong this week, Aries. A lot of people are counting on you to guide them. Don't let the pressure get to you. Stay focused, and look at the facts. Try not to be swayed by your emotions. A loved one wants you to help him or her prepare for a big event. Do it — you're sure to enjoy yourself.

Taurus - April 21/May 21

Don't be stubborn when it comes to affairs of the heart early in the week. You finally have a chance with that special someone. Don't let it slip away. A close friend is in trouble and needs your help. Do whatever you have to do to rectify the situation. He or she will appreciate your efforts.

Gemini - May 22/June 21

When it comes to an important financial decision, don't be too hasty, Gemini. You have a lot riding on this. Listen to what others have to say before you decide. An old flame wants to rekindle the romance. Go out with him or her, but don't make any commitments. There's a lot that you don't know about yet.

Cancer - June 22/July 22

Your desire to get ahead may lead you astray this week. Don't give up all that you have until you know exactly what you're going to get. The grass isn't always greener on the other side. A loved one needs your advice about a personal problem. Be supportive, but be honest too.

Leo - July 23/August 23

Look at the bright side of things, Leo. Don't let the stress of everyday life get you down. While your situation may not be the best, there are a lot of others who are much worse off. That special someone has a surprise for you. Enjoy yourself — it's sure to lift your spirits for a while.

Virgo - Aug 24/Sept 22

Your sincerity will be appreciated by a loved one late in the week, Virgo. While it won't be easy for you, you have to tell this person the truth about a family situation. He or she will take what you say to heart. A close friend stops by unexpectedly. Welcome him or her with open arms.

Libra - Sept 23/Oct 23

A disagreement among business associates has you on edge early in the week. While it will be hard, don't let it bother you. There's nothing that you can do about it anyway. So, just stay focused on your own work. A family friend reveals some interesting news to you. Try to be supportive.

Scorpio - Oct 24/Nov 22

Stand your ground when it comes to a disagreement with a loved one during the middle of the week. He or she is on the verge of making a huge mistake. Try to stop him or her. That special someone calls it quits. While you are sad, keep your chin up. Deep down, you know that he or she isn't the one for you.

Sagittarius - Nov 23/Dec 21

Don't let a friend spoil your good mood this week, Sagittarius. Everything is going your way. So, don't take this person's harsh words to heart. He or she is going through a rough time and just has to vent. A close family friend turns to you for advice. Be honest.

Capricorn - Dec 22/Jan 20

Don't be bullheaded when it comes to a business decision this week. Listen to what others have to say. They actually have the same goals as you. The person whom you've been seeing wants to make a commitment. Don't say yes right away. Think about what you want first. Once you say yes, it will be hard to go back.

Aquarius - Jan 21/Feb 18

Be practical early in the week, Aquarius. You can't do everything on your own. Accept help from friends and loved ones. They just want to see you succeed. A co-worker lets a secret slip. Keep it to yourself, or you'll get into hot water.

Pisces - Feb 19/March 20

Keep up the intensity this week, Pisces. The minute you slow down, someone will be there to take over where you leave off. Stay focused, and get everything you have to do done. While it will be stressful for you, your actions will be rewarded.

Regional Airport has room to grow

Boeing's arrival no big deal for Waukegan airport

By MARC JENKINS
Staff Reporter

Although Chicago landed the Boeing Company's corporate headquarters earlier this year with a big splash, trickle-down benefits for airports not named O'Hare or Midway will be few and far between.

"Boeing representatives were here in April before they said they were going to move," Neil Otterbacher, manager of the Waukegan Regional Airport, said. "They spent 3-4 hours here and then left. That was the last we saw or heard of them."

When the Seattle-based corporation came to town, it was looking to relocate its corporate headquarters. Now its executives are in the process of relocating to the Chicagoland area. But where will it store its planes?

"We're going to park two Challenger jets at Midway Airport and one BBJ (Boeing Business Jet) at Gary (Chicago/Gary Airport)," Tom Ryan, a spokesperson for Boeing's commercial airplanes division, said. "That's going to be on an interim basis to be evaluated later."

While he had no comment in regards to any Lake County airports being used in the future, Ryan did stress that it could happen in the future, if it's feasible.

"We're leaving our options open," Ryan said.

Fort James Co., a paper company, used Waukegan Airport for three of its company jets. When they sold their company to Georgia Pacific, it took the planes out of the Waukegan hangar late last year.

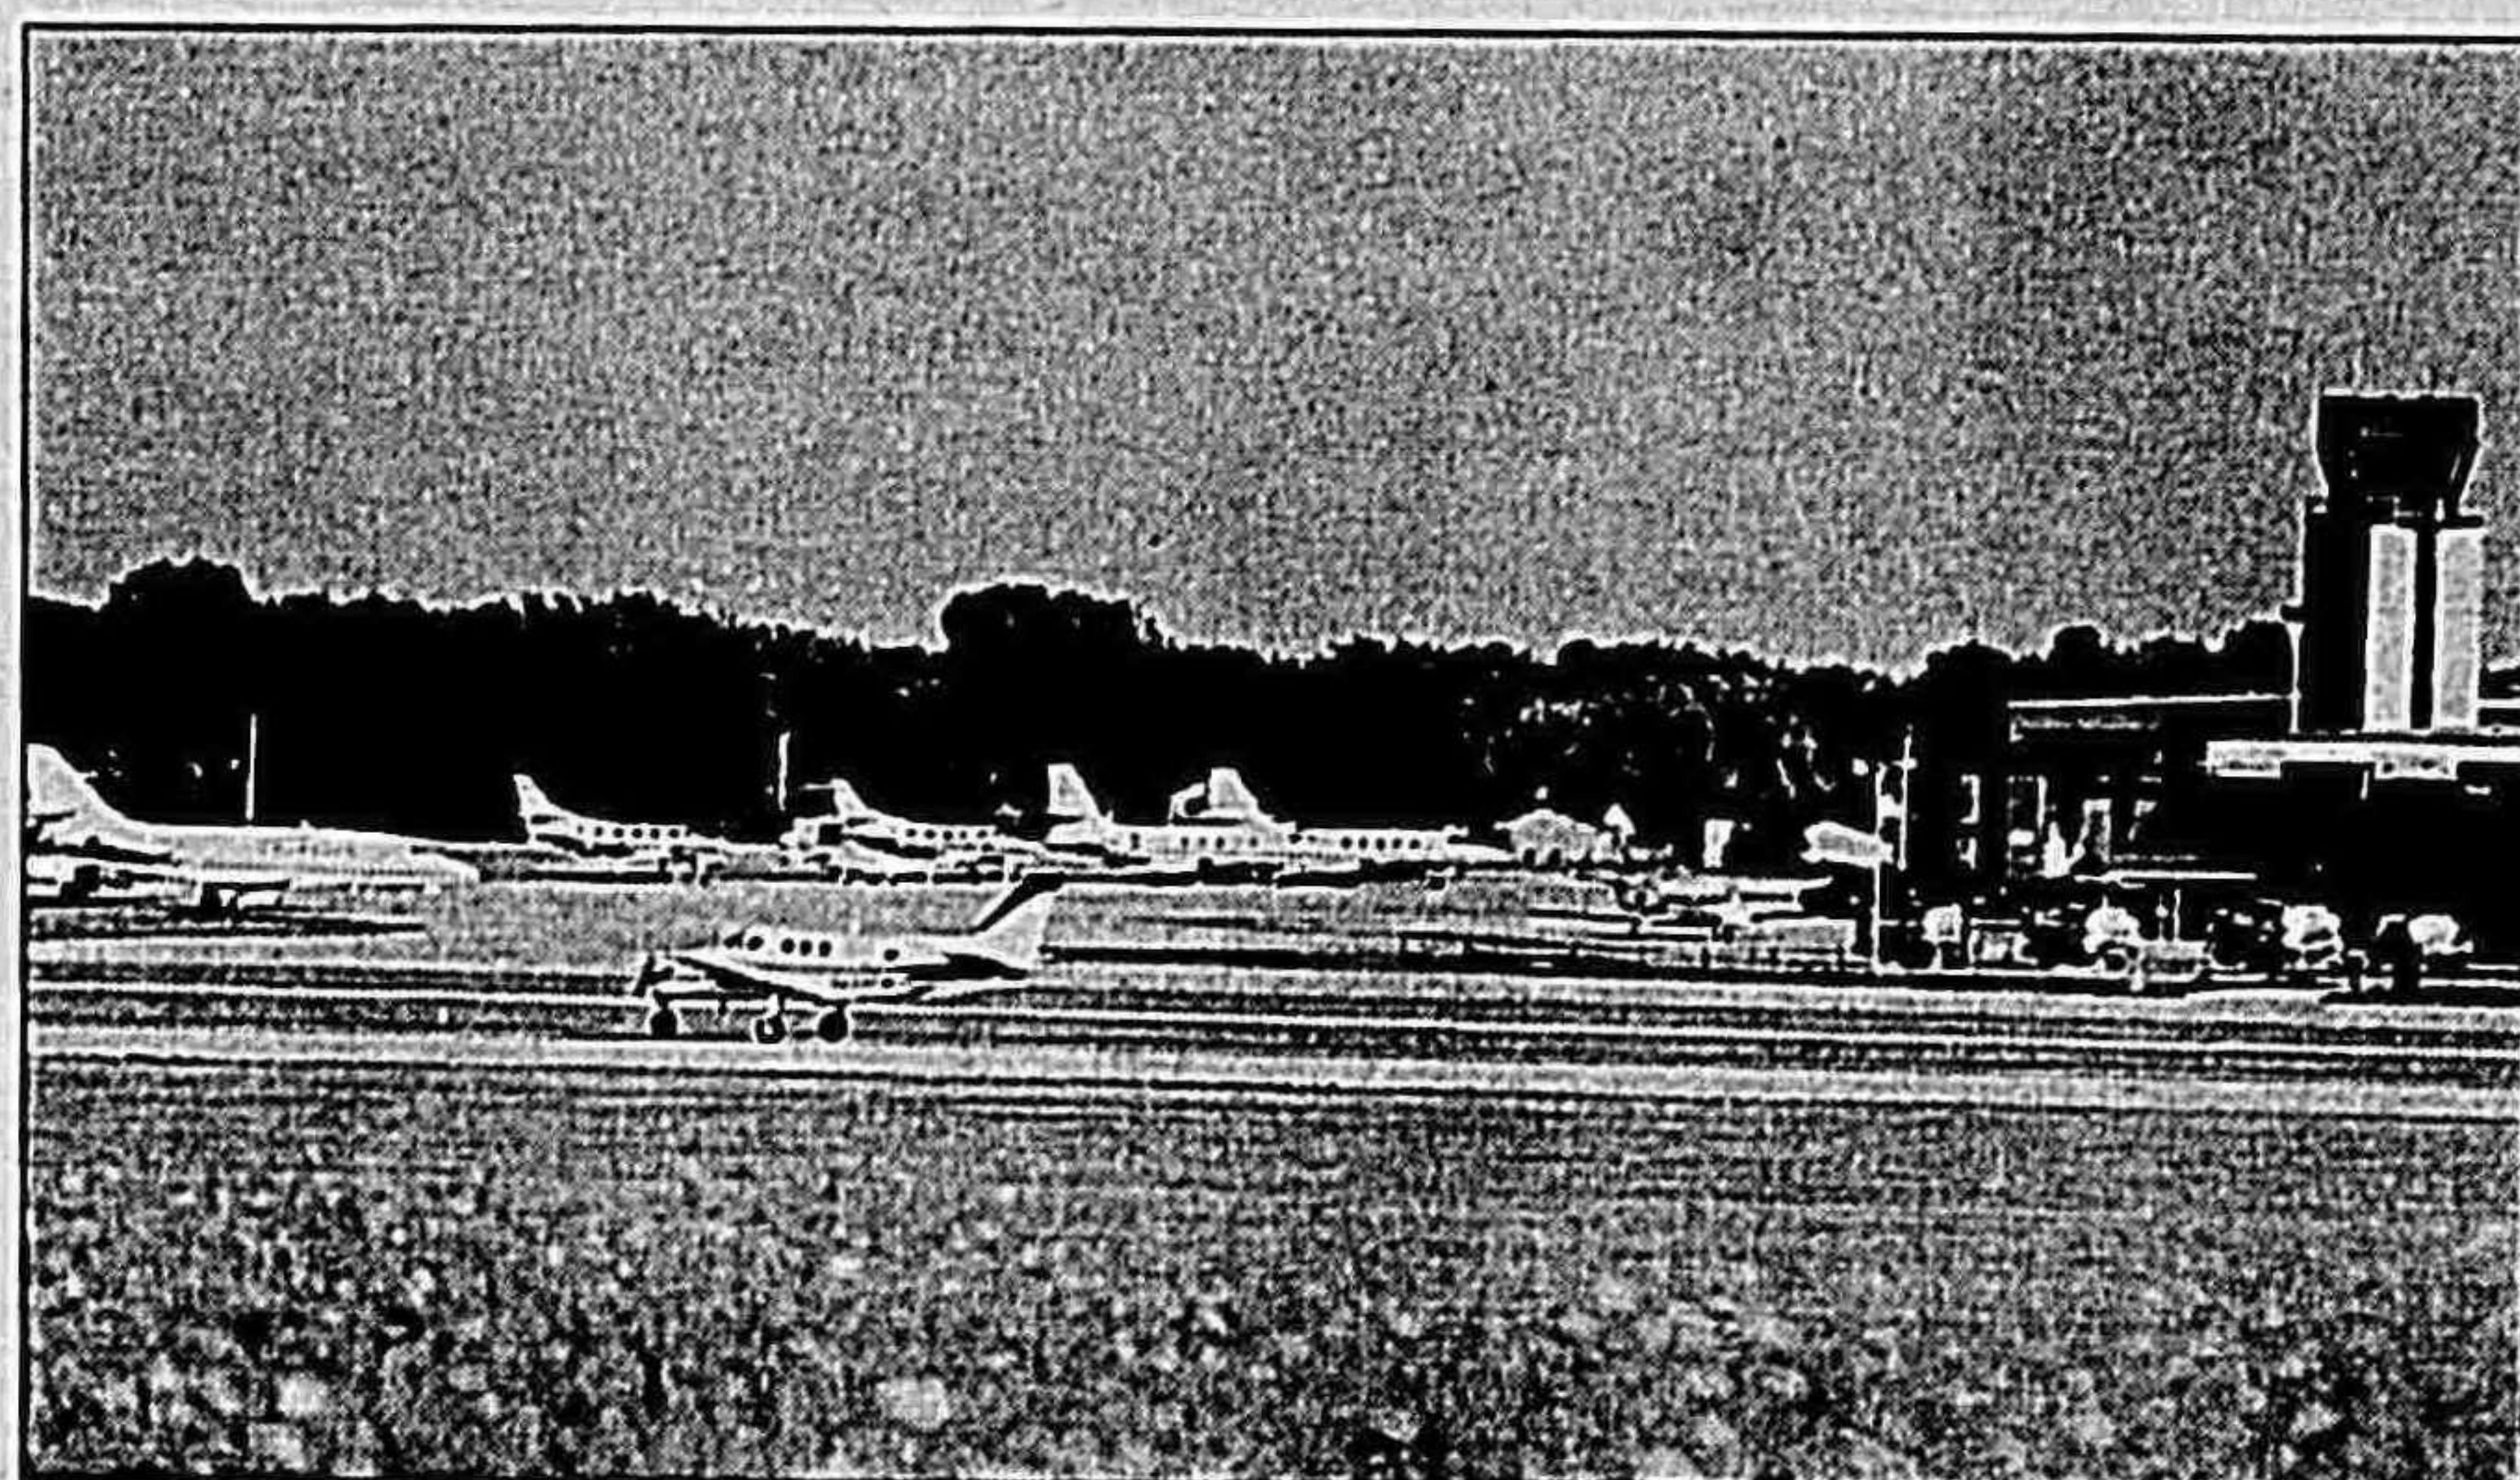

"There were three jets Boeing was talking about bringing over here," Otterbacher said. "They are the same size Fort James had here before. That hangar is now empty. We could of put them in the day they were in here if they wanted."

But apparently Waukegan didn't look viable because it couldn't accommodate one of Boeing's 737s, which are larger than regular 737s. Otterbacher said the airport can take those kinds of planes on an infrequent basis, but didn't have enough room to store one. And its main concern was the ability to handle a 737 business jet.

Waukegan's usage is about 40 percent corporate. It claims Abbott and Baxter as its two biggest clients for airplane storage. The two store a total of five planes at the field, Otterbacher said.

"We have some sites available for a large corporate hangar, but there would have to be infrastructure work done," Otterbacher said. "There's been talk about extending the long runway, but we're not looking for anything other than what we have now."

Chamber endorses O'Hare expansion

By HELEN MANSFIELD
Staff Reporter

The Lake County Chamber of Commerce hosted an impromptu meeting to discuss the implications of O'Hare Airport expansions to the county.

President of the Lake County Chamber Katie Spies opened by reading a 1996 resolution where the chamber came out opposing the creation of a third airport which would hamper the efficiency of both O'Hare and Midway airports.

Christopher Arman, assistant commissioner for the Department of Aviation's noise office, said re-configuring the current runways and adding one more could only be a winning situation for the seven-county region serviced by O'Hare.

He said the new configuration would model that of the Atlanta airport, which services 925,657 passengers on only 3,750 acres of land, according to 2000 figures.

O'Hare, by comparison, serviced 909,989 passengers in 2000, with 7,280 acres.

Arman said that more O'Hare dollars end up in the coffers of outlying suburban areas and that expansion is needed to maintain existing and incoming businesses, like Boeing.

"The demand is for O'Hare, not for Milwaukee, Rockford or Gary," he said. "We can't solve their problems; people want to fly into O'Hare."

Arman added that the O'Hare expansion plan will meet the airport's needs beyond the year 2030.

"If we don't maintain a united front when we go to Washington D.C. with this plan, we'll miss out," he said. "It needs to be a regional effort."

Fremont Township opinions split on open space district

By JEFF ZACHARY
Staff Reporter

The clock read five minutes past the hour and around 20 people were still standing in line trying to get into a packed Fremont Township Hall meeting scheduled for 7 p.m. to debate the merits of a proposed open space district for the township.

When everyone finally squeezed through the doors the crowd, numbering nearly 180 residents, not including the Township Supervisor Pete TeKampe and his trustees, Tony Titus, Mike Gustafson, Barb Tonkery, Bob Meyer, Chris McCann, and tax assessor Ed Sullivan, were ready for action.

As the gathering of farmers, lawyers, developers, businessmen, residents and concerned home-owners settled in on the metal chairs, "This meeting is being called to satisfy the state statutes on creating an open space district," said TeKampe.

He explained that in the annual township meeting held in April, a group of residents made the motion to create an open space committee, which would be responsible for drafting a referendum on the ballot in March of 2002 to create an open space district.

He added that the motion passed and the committee to create an open space district was formed. The first step of the committee was to collect over 700 signatures of residents.

In order to put the referendum on the ballot almost 1,000 signatures were presented to the township clerk and the board.

According to the supervisor, the board then hired a consultant to make a plan to create the open space district, and held this public meeting as required by state law.

If the board does not vote to put the referendum on the ballot, the committee can get an additional 700 signatures and force them to put it on the ballot with the residents of Fremont Township ultimately voting whether they want an open space district.

The first speaker introduced was Loraine "Raine" Ray, co-chair of the open space committee.

"My family and I owned Ray Lake Farm which we chose to sell to the Forest Preserve rather than have it developed," she said. "We want the whole community to work together so the open space plan prohibits the use of condemnation to purchase land."

She went on to say that the township would only acquire land from willing sellers and would give owners another option when considering selling their land.

Ray called Fremont Township the beautiful gem of Lake County. "We still have scenic vistas, working farms and green spaces for our families to enjoy," she added. "We still have an opportunity to safeguard our beautiful township but its vanishing and we have to take care of it or it will be gone."

Ray urged residents to support the open space plan and keep developers from coming in and bringing in 1,000's of new residents which will cause everyone's taxes to go up by paying for more schools and roads.

The next speaker was Al Maiden, vice president and director of planning for Rolf Campbell and Associates out of Lake Bluff.

Maiden showed a map which identified the 56 parcels of land that the township has said is desirable to purchase with the $10 million they hope to raise when the referendum is passed.

Next up, tax assessor Ed Sullivan who explained that taxes on a $150,000 home would go up approximately $67.42 a year. On a home valued at $450,000, taxes would increase $212.40 a year.

Tekampe then read some letters from residents and mayors.

Mayor Tim Perry of Grayslake wrote that he would not support any open space plan that included the land commonly known as the Central Range located between Rte. 83 and Allegheny Road north of Peterson Road.

Mayor Ila Bauer of Round Lake Park wrote that her village would support Fremont Township by using Conservation Design Principles to protect the environment in any development into Fremont Township.

Bob Bohl, of Owens Road, said that a golf course and a 600 home development was going up across the street from him and he wholeheartedly supported the open space plan.

Likewise, Donald Smith, a 55-year resident of Fremont Township, said, "I've known this board a long time and they have common sense. I can't see them taking people's land. I am heartily for this plan."

Several more people spoke up in favor of the plan, however, not all residents were in favor of the referendum.

"Despite the good intentions and plans of no condemnation, I have not found to my knowledge in reading the texts of the open space statute anything constitutional to prevent condemnation," said Donna Cockrum, a lifelong resident of Fremont Township.

Her husband Brad, said, "I don't think we can buy enough land to stop the developers from coming."

Also against the plan was Jerry Jensen, who said that the forest preserve is already doing a good job of buying land and there is no reason to duplicate its efforts.

Chip Martin, commented, 30 percent of our township is already open-space. "What more do we need," he asked. "We can't even manage what we have."

One of the highlights of the evening came when an elderly woman, Steffen Hagen, strolled to the microphone and said her family has owned her land on Peterson Road since 1843.

"Farmers have brains of their own. They know what to do with their land. We know who we can sell it to."

She said that Fremont Township used to be rural and when she was a child, "We had to move over and let most of you people come into our town—and now you don't want to do the same for other people."

There will be a vote by the board on Aug. 30, on the open space issue.

Adams supports suits filed by Hispanics

Green Oaks Mayor Tom Adams has voiced strong support for two lawsuits filed by Hispanic organizations against Lake County in connection with remapping new districts as the result of the 2000 census.

Adams is active in Republican politics and has sought county and state offices as a GOP candidate.

Adams

"I applaud and support the two lawsuits filed against the County of Lake during the past two days in Federal Court by a number of prominent and respected citizens of Lake County," Adams declared.

Adams Both suits are focused on the county board district remap that was created and approved by the Lake County Board, in record time, earlier this year, he said.

A significant issue in both lawsuits relates to the growing and important Hispanic population of Lake County and whether or not the current map adequately provides for the interests of the Hispanic communities, Adams stated in a letter.

The reaction to the two law suits from certain County Board members is certainly not surprising, he said.

"Chairman Schmidt and others pass this off as some 'frivolous' matter that is politically motivated. Well, what is a remap if it isn't political? The map created by our County Board map makers appears to be as politically motivated as any I've ever seen. Clearly designed to protect the reelection interests of most of the current County Board members," he said.

Adams continued: "As a local mayor and past president of the Lake County Municipal League, the current map also impacts municipalities. County Board District maps are supposed to take into account the interests of municipalities. One would have thought that our County map makers would have sought direct input from municipal leaders and the Municipal League before plunging forward to create and approve the County Board District Map.

"I've spoken to dozens of mayors and not one has indicated that their input was sought. Likewise, the Municipal League could have been contacted for suggestions and their input. Instead, this whole map business was rushed through without providing for important community input."

East, west split over remapping

County Board redistricting that created a new west Lake County district and left two North Shore representatives disgruntled has triggered lawsuits by Hispanic organizations over their lack of representa-

County officials expressed dismay that unhappy citizens would wait so long to mount legal challenges, but County Board Chair Suzi Schmidt said "they should have their day in court."

The Mexican-American legal Defense and Education Fund filed suit in the name of four citizens that the remap splits the Waukegan Hispanic community into three districts, leaving Latinos voiceless.

A day before the Mexican-American legal group suit was filed Aug. 22, another suit was filed by 11 persons, charging inadequate representation. Coroner Barbara Richardson and Waukegan political activist Jack Potter were parties of the suit.

The Waukegan dissatisfaction in the Hispanic community was in direct contrast to a new district covering the Round Lake area where area mayors expressed approval.

Round Lake Park Mayor Ila Bauer expressed sentiment that the "Round Lake area finally is getting recognition."

Since the new computer generated map was produced approximately three months ago, criticism over combining two districts covering Lake Forest and Libertyville has subsided. Two veteran incumbents, Rep. Mary Beattie (R-Lake Forest) and Rep. John Schullien (R-Libertyville) wound up in the same district.

Maria Arza, president of the Latino Coalition of Lake County, took issue with Schmidt that the redistricting process was sensitive to minority representation.

Arza said the new map divides Waukegan into three districts, splitting the Hispanic population.

League votes Rte. 53 support

Directors of the Lake County Municipal League passed a resolution endorsing the construction of the Route 53 extension in Lake County.

Departing from past policy not to take a position on transportation matters, the board agreed that the time had come to speak out in favor of the project, as it is designed to alleviate a meaningful portion of the traffic congestion viewed as the No.

1 issue in Lake County today.

The resolution called for a comprehensive solution to Lake County's traffic congestion, including not only the Route 53 extension but also added capacity for local roads, improvements to intersections and traffic control devices, and public transit upgrades.

Round Lake Park Mayor Ila Bauer is president of the League. Roger Bryne, mayor of Vernon Hills, is secretary.

Thomas, Polatty discuss Navy-civilian connection

By Lance Carr
Correspondent

North Chicago Mayor Bette Thomas met Tuesday with CNTC Rear Adm. David Polatty, commander NVAL Training Center Great Lakes, to discuss how NTC and North Chicago can work together for the betterment of both the training facility and the city.

Among the topics discussed at their late morning meeting are plans for North Chicago's Sept. 14 Navy Day celebration and various construction projects near the training center, such as improvements to Spaulding Street, and potential METRA Station business opportunities. Polatty was also given an update concerning community schools.

Thomas and Polatty additionally discussed a tentative plan for a joint celebration of the Fourth of July holiday next year. "It's great when we work with the Navy," said Thomas of the meeting.

Giving Thomas a portrait of the Naval Training Center's Building One under a cascade of fireworks, Polatty said, smiling, "let this commemorate your visit."

North Chicago and Naval Training Center officials plan for this to be the first in a series of meetings to help bolster relations between the two communities.

Push health care for needy children

In a joint effort to reach out to working families, a group of Lake County officials are coming together to aid in the enrollment of children in low cost or free health care coverage.

The program, KidCare, offers access to emergency rooms, dental care, and immunizations for children aged 19 and under.

A pilot program will be directed to area businesses whose employees may need to increase health care coverage for children. Currently efforts are being made to provide information at schools and churches. The next step is to work directly with employees and employers on the opportunity to enroll more children into a portable insurance program.

"We have made a strong commitment to do everything we can to ensure that the 13,000 children currently without adequate health care coverage. Today in Lake County have every opportunity to receive coverage," said State Rep. Susan Garrett (D-Lake Forest).

KidCare is a state and federally funded program to specifically provide health care coverage.

Involved in the program are; Lake County Partners, Lake County Health Department, Finch University-The Chicago Medical School, HealthReach Clinic.

Media bias tilts open space plan

Bias in the media (not this newspaper) for development at any cost is evident in newspaper coverage of the proposal to form an open space district in Fremont Township, the rural area in west Lake County surrounded by rapidly growing municipalities.

A group of citizens interested in maintaining open country dotted by working farms is advocating formation of a tax supported district to acquire open space and hold the land in perpetuity.

Only a handful of township initiated open space districts in Illinois, the most notable one being in Libertyville Township, where the concept was launched a decade ago.

Non-Lake County owned media sources have framed the question as a test of pushing condemnation to acquire land. Raising the specter of public taking is a blatant attempt, in our opinion, to distort the intent and purpose for forming the district.

Organizers and supporters of the Fremont Township project make no apologies about their intent to slow or modify expansion policies of neighboring municipalities. What they have talked about from the start is a way for Fremont residents to protect the rural quality of their community. They see the open space district as a tool for heading off an avalanche of residential development that will produce a flood of school age children who will overburden already financially strapped public schools.

It was evident at a public meeting last week that the condemnation boogymen has taken hold. Opponents of the tax-supported public lands acquisition program repeatedly turned to condemnation to cast the proposal in a dark light.

This newspaper has followed the Fremont Open Space District proposal from its inception. At no time has condemnation been put forth as a workable strategy to acquire land. In fact, organizers have gone out of their way to advocate land acquisition through purchase from willing sellers. The organization plan calls for approval of a $10 million bond issue to create a pool of money for purchasing land. Co-chairman John Reindl of an open space study group organized by electors at the annual town meeting last April has restated numerous times that condemnation is not part of the plan. Still condemnation surfaces in press coverage. Coincidence? Careful questioning by objective reporters?

The open space district will cost a large percentage of homeowners an estimated $100 per year, the amount that could be raised from a home evaluated for tax purposes at $200,000. That's a small sum to pay, district proponents point out, compared to what it costs for taxpayers to supply in government services for water, sewers, schools, roads, and fire and police protection.

The Lake County Forest Preserve District has acquired hundreds of acres of open space in recent years from willing sellers, often at below market prices, because landowners share the ideals of preservation, conservation and maintenance of rural character.

Stressing the condemnation specter in news coverage of the Fremont Township proposal is back-handed agenda reporting. Supporters of the plan, though, respond that condemnation is an easy argument to answer because it isn't part of the program.

VIEWPOINT

Peakers targeting blue collar towns

Why not Wilmette? The answer to that question says a lot about what's going on with this peaker plant business.

Millions are to be made with electrical generators located close to transmission lines and population centers. Peaker plant promoters are working feverishly to site their plants to take advantage of current energy shortages in various parts of the nation.

After an abortive attempt to locate a peaker plant in Libertyville, approval now is being sought for plants in Zion, Waukegan and Round Lake. Blue collar towns with heavy minority populations are being viewed as being more "open" to deal with noise and unsightliness of generators—"industrial activity."

The remark about Wilmette, made derisively by an opponent of the Waukegan proposal, clearly injects class and income questions into the peaker plant debate in northern Illinois.

Round Lake Mayor Bill Gentes openly is courting the same company that sent peaker promoters packing from Libertyville a year ago after months of heated debate. Zion officials are delighted that a peaker plant wants to come to town.

They've thrown out the welcome mat. Both Round Lake and Zion are enticed by host fees that will be used to prop up sagging tax bases.

BILL SCHROEDER
Publisher

In Waukegan, there is a clash between environmentalists and leaders who see economic opportunity in a plan offered by Texas-based Kinder Morgan Co. to establish a gas-burning plant with a 130 foot high ventilation tower on a lakefront industrial site.

At a preliminary hearing, Lynn Karner, a plumbers union official, spoke glowingly about construction jobs and future employment to be gained. Promoters, the public and officials will have more to say at a second hearing Sept. 5.

Just like in southern Illinois coal mining country, the promise of jobs and tax income is hard to resist in towns where both are in short supply. Mr. Peaker, what have you got to offer?

Just stay away from Wilmette.

test to the benefits of the exercise program she operates through a Jazzercise franchise in Antioch. Starting in 1980, Soria has gone down 10 sizes and experienced three pregnancies without injury because of systematic exercise. Soria refuses to believe Americans don't have time to work out. "People waste a lot of time on the phone, Internet and watching TV. I have students who have kids, work full-time jobs and still manage to get to class three to four times per week."

Donna writes

Donna Abear, who garnered fans and local fame with her humor column "Life's A Bear" in Lakeland Newspapers, has put together a collection of her columns in book form, "Mom...you're not naked, are you?" Donna will mail an autographed copy if you send $10.99 to Moonshadow Books, P.O. Box 391, Antioch, IL 60002. Donna reports that she's enjoying time off with her family. "Life's A Bear" ran for seven years.

First steps first

Sandy Kamen Wisniewski doesn't see herself as swimming up stream even though she's in the business of web site design, a field where millions of dollars have been lost in the economic downturn. "The fact that many businesses have failed on the web doesn't make it a marketing segment that shouldn't be considered," said the Libertyville entrepreneur who heads SKW Enterprises. "It's a matter of being smart," Sandy states. As a small business owner, Wisniewski said she can relate to businesses that want to grow in stages. So that's how SKW is approaching web site design, in digestible stages.

One man's family

The high cost of child rearing was driven home to this grandfather after making an emergency run to the supermarket for a fresh supply of diapers for grandson Tommy. $13.83. That sounded like a week's grocery bill for a hungry toddler back in the "good old days." That's when parent's relied on diaper service. A uniformed driver delivered a week's supply of cloth diapers and took away a pail of used diapers. Boy, was his visit welcomed!

'Tell me why'—More thoughts on this and that

Some weeks back, I offered some sayings under the title of "Tell Me Why"—and I have had some requests to submit some more for the column. Hope that you enjoy them.

Tell My Why—

Nobody looks down on someone—who is on the up and up.

People who say that their life is an open book—are never on the same page with you.

A family business isn't always the best way—to keep a family together.

Some people seem to think that they are getting out of this life—alive.

ing in the middle of the road—yet politicians seem to think that it is the safest place to stand.

You go on a vacation to relax—and when you return back home you need more time to relax and recover from it.

Those who worry about going to hell—seem to enjoy raising it.

There is no way that you will see a rainbow—without first having rain.

You will always fall behind—if you choose to run with a fast crowd.

Some people say that you don't know someone until you live with them—others say don't live with them until you know them.

Too many cooks can spoil the broth—but it takes only one microwave.

There is much more to be sorry about—than to be sorry for yourself.

Most of the people that you meet after midnight—will keep you in the dark.

The same person who says that he likes to keep informed—never listens to anyone.

You will always find it hard to find a friend—if you never look for one.

When we say that you can fool all of the people some of the time—that means that we can be fooled, too.

Playgrounds—aren't being used to play on anymore.

Golf is the one thing—where you don't mind if you end up in the hole.

When someone says that they lost their train of thought—you can be sure that the person they were talking to did, too.

Many people who insist that their motel window have a beautiful view—never bother to look out the window.

PARTY LINES

PARTY LINES, THE LAKELAND NEWSPAPERS' COLUMN OF POLITICAL OPINION, IS PREPARED FROM STAFF REPORTS.

Ryan for Ryan recalls '98 Salvi cut

Announcement of lameduck Gov. George Ryan's tacit backing of Atty. Gen. Jim Ryan as his successor is leaving backers of Lt. Gov. Corinne Wood puzzled and chagrined about her chances to gain the nomination for governor.

"Join the club," relate long-standing supporters of former State Rep. Al Salvi, who at one time counted on backing of George Ryan when Salvi ran for secretary of state in 1998.

In that campaign, Salvi had secured the Republican nomination and organized his race around a GOP team concept. What turned out instead was an uphill battle and eventual defeat after George Ryan "went soft" on Salvi, leaving the Wauconda Republican to fend for himself against Jesse White, whose main credentials were sponsorship of a popular youth tumbling team.

All through Gov. Ryan's roller coaster tenure, Wood has remained loyal in her No. 2 role. Wood's strategists are grouching that the least the governor could do in the campaign for the GOP gubernatorial nomination is remain neutral.

"Nah," exclaimed a Salvi worker recalling relations with George Ryan during the secretary of state race. "Been there, done that."

Political humor

Joe O'Rourke, internationally known political humorist, has been booked to address the 87th annual meeting of the Lake County Farm Bureau Monday, Sept. 24, at Marriott's Lincolnshire Resort. The program beginning at 6:30 p.m. is mostly dining and entertainment, but a brief business meeting will be held at 8 p.m. to elect directors.

Salvi: Knows how George Ryan
'backs' friends.

Buchler:
New roadway

Goshgarian:
Noon-time jog

the bench.

Peaker welcome

Zion Mayor Lane Harrison says there's no question that a peaker power plant is welcome. City officials see the SkyGen plan as triggering industrial growth and replacing lost taxes when the ComEd nuclear plant shut down. The city also is pushing hard to establish two tax increment funding districts, one for an industrial area and another for downtown redevelopment.

Noon-time jogger

Circuit Judge John Goshgarian finds a noon-time job great for relieving courtroom stress and keeping physically fit. The jurist also participates in community runs, "the short ones," he notes with a grin.

participates in community runs, "the short ones," he notes with a grin.

Sign language

Trustee James Nutschalg made sure Mundelein didn't blow its opportunity of introducing Krispy Kreme to doughnut lovers in Lake County. Mundelein has a strict sign control ordinance, one that is tough enough to scuttle Krispy Kreme, which has bigger than big signs as a trademark. As Permits Committee chairman, Nutschalg shepherded a sign size compromise through the council. Even though they supported the compromise unanimously, several trustees are wondering if their sign control ordinance has been rendered useless.

As part of their Tuesday evening council meeting, members of the Long Grove village board took a walking tour of the Route 83 pathway through their village. Trustees noted the open space gap in their still growing community, but didn't back off in their opposition to the controversial highway.

Safety first?

Both Marty Buchler, director of the Lake County Dept. of Transportation, and Diana O'Kelly, County Board transportation chair, winced when informed that a traffic collision took place at the Rollins Rd. bridge over Squaw Creek less than 60 minutes after the bridge was opened to traffic. The bridge and a rerouted roadway were designed to eliminate a dangerous S curve and improve safety. Rollins, a major east-west thoroughfare, is due for a major overhaul where the road connects with Route 45. The $2.1 million project took 14 months to complete.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Reduce power

In discussing the role of big money in political campaigns, John S. Matijevich (Seeing It Through, Aug. 17) identifies the crux of the problem when he notes that political contributors "expect something in return" for their campaign donations.

It's true that our political process is awash in money. But it's not because our campaign finance laws are too few and too lax, nor yet because our First Amendment free speech rights have been insufficiently abridged.

Our political process is for sale because our government is too big, too rich, and too powerful. No wonder its favors can command a high price.

The only way to decrease the role of money in politics is to reduce the size of government, and to limit its power to the highly circumscribed functions defined in the Constitution.

Proud of Bush

I am glad I supported George Bush for president. America now has a president who keeps his promises.

The most important promise he made was to provide tax relief for working families.

I work as a carpenter. Both my wife and I work very hard to keep food on the table for our family. As an able bodied person, I have asked nothing of the government other than to let me keep as much of the money I earn as possible.

I just received a notice from the IRS that I will be getting the maximum rebate. Middle class families need to get more good news like this from a tax agency most working people fear.

The Democrats have tried to spin this tax cut as some type of break for the rich. Most of my friends also work with their hands and belong to the middle class. Every one of my friends who earns an income is getting a tax cut. Anyone who pays taxes is getting some of those taxes back, thanks to George Bush.

The non-working poor already get their welfare. I am glad that President Bush is looking out for people who work hard, earn wages and pay too much in taxes. Reducing the tax burden on workers is an idea whose time has come.

Looking for food

The dwindling of Township Food Pantry supplies in Libertyville Township as voiced by Supervisor F.T. Graham can be laid at his doorstep for failure to use the current methods for re-supply as are done in the other Lake County Townships.

Kudos to Avon Township Supervisor Russ Christian who seems to have the wherewithal to ensure that the needy resident in his township will be able to partake in the USDA perishable food program.

Also, bravo to Ela and Warren Township Supervisors wherein their township residents have established vegetable gardens to supply their pantry needs. It's time Libertyville Township discovered how to partake in these programs. Graham's answer to the dwindling Libertyville township pantry supply is to stare into a nearly empty freezer and look, once again, to the Libertyville Township taxpayer to pick up the bill rather than being resourceful as is the case in many other Lake County Townships.

It would appear that with the thousands of Open Space acres that Libertyville Township has acquired one would think that utilizing a few acres for township vegetable gardens would not be unreasonable. It appears difficult for an old "politician" to accept new methods.

Where have all the nicknames gone?

As we faithful wince and watch our beloved, cuddly Chicago Cubs try to salvage a spot in the baseball playoffs, some of us wonder, "What's the problem?"

Well, I think I have put my finger upon it. The Cubs are just too darn cuddly, they fail to inspire fear in their opponents. Just look at the lineup: Eric, Ron, Sammy, Fred, Matt, Ricky, Michael, Joe, Todd and Robert.

This could be a Little League team, for goodness sake. Where have baseball's creative, colorful nicknames gone? The Splendid Splinter, the Yankee Clipper, the Georgia Peach (also known as Ted Williams, Joe DiMaggio and Ty Cobb)?

The closest the Cubs come to having a well-nicknamed player is the recently acquired Fred McGriff (the Crime Dog).

Granted, adding the surname Sosa to Sammy is enough to give opposing pitchers pause, if not panic.

A New York writer recently lamented the disappearance of great nicknames like those that fueled baseball in years gone by: "Catfish" Hunter, "Shoeless Joe" Jackson, brothers "Dizzy" and "Daffy" Dean, and Mordecai "Three Fingers" Brown, who actually had lost two fingers on his pitching hand.

THE PFARR CORNER

Jerry Pfarr

When it comes to saddling associates with colorful sobriquets, few societies do it as well as the Mafia. As The People's Almanac says, "Though some Italian Americans are sensitive about it, they have provided this country with one of its most pervasive myths. The Godfather, a chilling novel about the Mafia by Mario Puzo, was one of the fastest-selling books in history, and the three movies made from it are high on the list of the top-grossing films."

The real-life Mafia gave us Anthony (Big Tuna) Accardo, Charles (Charlie the Blade) Taurine, Salvatore (Sally the Sheik) Muscato, Joseph (Joe Jelly) Giorrelli, and Richard (Vinnie the Pig) DeVincent.

Then Hollywood in the three "Godfather" movies, plus the films "Goodfellas," and "Wise Guys," gave us such characters as Frank the Fixer, Nicky Eyes, Johnny Roastbeef, Barbeque Wiseguy, Pete the Killer, and Freddy No Nose.

Now we have that boffo TV series, "The Sopranos," giving us such characters as Corrado "Uncle Junior" Soprano, Paulie "Walnuts" Gaultieri, and Salvatore "Big Pussy" Bonpensiero.

Returning to real life, the Chicago media recently have been digging into possible connections between the Mafia and gambling, and dropping such notorious but nifty nicknames as John "No Nose" DiFronzo, "Milwaukee Phil" Alderisio, "Mad Sam" DeStefano, and Willie "Potatoes" Daddano.

Also, I long have admired the creative way the American Indians of lore named their pa-poooses and braves, honoring them with such memorable monickers as Sitting Bull, Crazy Horse, Chief Angry Eyes, Kills Game and Comes Back, Young Man Afraid of Horses, Oliver Talks with Bear, and Turkey Head.

Wouldn't the Chicago Cubs' baseball rivals be just a tad more intimidated if, instead of Eric, Ron and Ricky, they had to pitch to batters with labels like Sitting Bull, Crazy Horse and Chief Angry Eyes?

Or, how about Pete the Killer, Vinnie the Pig and Johnny Roastbeef?

Schools' soft drink deals increase teen cavities

Tips to prevent soda from damaging teeth

Soda vending machines line the halls of many junior high and high schools like colorful sentinels. Between classes, students search their pockets for change. Some are merely thirsty, but others are looking for an early morning caffeine kick. However, none are looking for tooth decay, though that's what many may get.

Since 1995, soda companies have approached schools with lucrative, long-term deals -- called "pouring rights" contracts -- to exclusively sell their brand in exchange for funding. Citizens' groups and dental care professionals have criticized these companies for promoting their products to kids in school.

Many dentists are worried that the increase in soda consumption is leading to an increase in tooth decay among teenagers. "It is easy to forget that soft drinks may be harmful," says William Chase, DDS, FAGD, spokesperson for the Academy of General

Dentistry, an organization of general dentists dedicated to continuing dental education. "Many parents just don't ask what their kids are drinking or how much. We are reverting to a pre-fluoride condition in America." Studies show an increase in soda consumption over the last three decades. Soda consumption has increased from 22.2 gallons of cola per person a year in 1970, to 56 gallons per person a year in 1999 -- totaling about 14 billion gallons of soda.

"We are not trying to get schools to ban vending machines ... we want to educate people on what soda consumption can do to kids' teeth," says Dr. Chase.

What Kids Can Do to Protect Their Teeth Kids who drink soda or other sugary beverages during the day can take steps to prevent acid from damaging enamel on their teeth. - After drinking soda, kids should rinse their mouths with water to wash away excess sugar that bacteria consume to create acid. This helps neutralize acids and reduces bacteria by 30 percent.

- Kids should drink soda from a straw to reduce sugar exposure to their teeth and to prevent staining tooth surfaces.

- Drink soda from a can, not a bottle with a replaceable cap, to reduce sipping throughout the day, which can exacerbate acid attacks.

- Chew sugarless gum. Chewing gum can triple the regular amount of saliva in the mouth, which is nature's buffer against cavities.

How Parents Can Get More Information Dental health information is available through AGD's SmileLine. Consumers can have their questions concerning oral health personally answered by an Academy dentist, in either Spanish or English.

- SmileLine Online can be accessed through the AGD's Web site, www.agd.org. Click on the big red smile, post a question and a dentist will post a response in 24 hours. —Courtesy of ARA Content

Sept. is National Alcohol and Drug Addiction Recovery Month

September is National Alcohol and Drug Addiction Recovery Month, sponsored by the US Department of Health and Human Services, a time to recognize that effective treatment and recovery are possible when family, friends and community work together. Although addiction to alcohol and other drugs is a chronic, relapsing illness that involves a number of brain chemistry disorders, treatment for addiction is as effective as treatments for other chronic medical conditions such as diabetes and high blood pressure. Thanks to treatments and the support of family and friends, tens of thousands of people find the road to recovery each year.

A national study of publicly-funded, community-based treatment programs showed that among participants served by those programs, criminal activity declined by as much as 80 percent, employment increased and homelessness and dependence on public assistance decreased. Furthermore, separate research studies have shown that for every dollar spent on treatment, three to seven dollars are saved in social, health and criminal justice costs. A major insurance company found that families' health care costs dropped by 87 percent after treatment.

This September, the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration's Center for Substance Abuse Treatment (CSAT) is sponsoring its 12th annual month-long celebration of recovery. Chicagoland residents can learn about Recovery Month events, in our area by visiting www.inrecovery.org or by calling Recovery Communities United at (708) 383-2885. —Donald Malec, director of Recovery Communities United (RCU)

Let sleeping kids lie?

PARENT'S PLACE

Dr. Sherri Singer

Hi Dr. Singer,

We have a problem with our 7 year old daughter. I think it started out innocently enough, but now it feels like it is getting out of hand and we would like to change it now. When our daughter was born, we had her sleep between us. Since that time, we kept talking about when we were going to stop doing that, but never quite got around to it. Now she's 7 and still sleeping between us. We have tried to put her in her own room, but she has really bad and loud tantrums and comes back in our room. Can this be changed now? F.L.

Hi F.L.,

First and foremost, even though I believe it can be changed, I also believe it must be done in the context of counseling and it must be a family issue. I'm sure if you have been reading my column for a long time, you know that, since I don't know you, I cannot ethically give you direct advice through the column, especially with bad tantrums going on. I will speak to the process that occurs when this happens, but if you want my direct advice, please re-call and set up a time to come in. I do recommend that you start this process as soon as possible. I have met older kids who have come to me because they have always been sleeping with parents, and when parents tried to oust them to their own room, holes ended up being kicked in the walls by these kids. The oldest one I have seen was 14. Yes, still sleeping between parents at 14.

—Please see SINGER / B7

I consider this to be an addictive process in that both child and parents originally feel comfort in this process and then eventually for the child and sometimes the parents, it becomes a need that is not parted with, without a great deal of stress and loudness. You need to not blame yourselves for what has occurred, but find out how to change it now. For other new parents reading this, I believe it is best to have some healthy boundaries between parents and kids. It is perfectly o.k. to have new baby sleeping in a bassinet next to your bed for a while, but it is definitely easier to make the separation of parental space and kid space when the child is young enough. It is just as easy to love and cherish your child if he or she has his or her own sleeping space. This teaches healthy boundaries and independence, which of course, is not something new parents want to hear about right away.

The problem you face is that your daughter has really never known it any other way. She views sleeping with you as normal and probably sees your wanting a change as a direct rejection of her. I don't say this to make you feel bad for her but I do say it to give you some context. A counselor can help you understand how to say things to her to help her understand your true intentions. If you truly want to start having her sleeping in her own space, like I said above, you need to seek counseling, but you also need to be aware that this will probably not happen without some "fireworks." I do not think that embarking on a counseling course to change her hibernation patterns, is going to permanently damage her, so you need to make yourselves constantly aware of that through the "antics," you see which may include screaming, yelling, kicking, etc. My point is, she will not go quietly toward your goal. It will take work and energy and probably watching tears and maybe even more aggressive behavior, which again, is why you need to do this with professional help. My best advice to you is to realize that as long as you are doing this within the scope of counseling, and following the counseling guidelines, it should turn out o.k., even if she is unhappy about it. It is never fun for parents to watch their child be unhappy, but sometimes, growing itself is about feeling unhappy and we have to let them grow. We have to encourage them to grow.

Your instincts to change this are right.

Again, call me if you want my direct advice about what to do to change this. Just please don't do it on your own, because it has been going on long enough that I think you will see some fairly serious behavior from your daughter and I don't want you to get stuck not knowing what to do next.

Dr. Sherri Singer is a Licensed Clinical Psychologist and Childhood Behavior Specialist. She regularly works in person with many readers of this column, helping them to significantly improve their kid's behavior and processing skills. New to Dr. Singer's practice is her very powerful "Tic Mark System of Behavior Improvement in Kids." This system has promoted unbelievably fast behavior change both at home and school with very little work from parents and teachers. Dr. Singer continues to help kids with improving focus and processing in her Total Success and Pace Program. For an appointment, please call (847) 577-8832 or (708) 962-2549.

What would you do if your doctor said nothing more could be done for you?

Vickie Girard called CTCA.

| Diagnosed as terminal, Vickie came to CTCA for hope. That was eight years ago.

Vickie heard the worst from doctors she consulted after being diagnosed with stage four breast cancer that had metastasized to her bones.

Four different doctors at four different hospitals said she would have six months to live. That was when her husband saw an ad on television and urged her to make just one more phone call. She called Cancer Treatment Centers of America.

It was a phone call that changed her life.

From CTCA, she got the nutritional, emotional and spiritual support she needed, but there was much more. She also got the best medical treatment cancer-fighting technology had to offer. Considered experimental at the time by her insurance company, she received a bone marrow transplant that saved her life.*

Vickie was not alone. There are others. In fact, many patients who come to CTCA have already heard the worst from another hospital when they still have a treatable disease.

Today, Vickie Girard is an inspirational author and speaker. Traveling across the country, she speaks to hundreds of people at a time, spreading her message of 'where there is life, there is hope.' Her book "There's No Place Like Hope," available in bookstores nationwide, is a first-person resource for those battling cancer.

If you or a loved one are currently fighting cancer, call oncology information specialist Doug White at 1-800-577-1255 to find out how CTCA can help you in your battle.

No case is typical. You should not expect to experience these results.*

Fall composting ensures a bountiful garden

As the air turns cooler and the days grow shorter, our backyard gardens surrender their last fruits and vegetables of the year, and the last leaves fall from the trees. When we pull out the yellowing vines from the garden and bag leaves from the yard, we're a little saddened that we must wait until spring to see new growth again.

Autumn, however, is the perfect time to begin a project that will ensure a bountiful garden next year: a compost pile. Harvest time is a great opportunity to start a compost pile because decaying vines, vegetables, leaves and grass clippings contain excellent nutrients that break down over time to recharge soil with nitrogen for spring planting.

Building a compost pile is simple with these easy tips from the lawn experts at John Deere. First, find a place for your compost. Drive four 5-foot wood or metal stakes one foot into the ground. Fence in three sides with chicken wire, leaving one side open for easy access. If you like the idea of a compost pile but don't have time to build one, purchase a prefabricated compost unit.

Next, collect chopped tree leaves, grass clippings, and all the vines and fading plants from your vegetable garden and build a pile that's at least three feet in diameter and three feet high. This will build a hot internal temperature that gets nutrients "cooking."

Flowers also contain many nutrients that are great for composting. If your annuals have gotten "leggy," pull them up and toss them in the compost pile and till the bed. Leave the fall perennials while the leaves are green, and then mow them down once they turn brown and compost the leaves.

Add the material in five- to six-inch layers and sprinkle a 10-10-10 fertilizer -- ten parts each nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium -- on top of each layer, and add a dusting of lime to prevent odor. Cover each layer with soil. Shape the pile like a volcano and make an indentation on top to catch rain. Water the pile occasionally to keep it moist and turn it once in a while to move drier outside material into the middle where it can break down into lush humus.

2001 Lakeland Media Football Preview

Any given Friday!

Rob Backus, Mike Krizman, John Phelps, Steve Peterson and Joe Pruski contributed to this report. Photos by Sandy Bressner, David Krueger and Steve Young.

If week 1 was any indication, the 2001 season on the gridiron promises excitement from the first snap to the final whistle. While sporting a 2-7 mark in its inaugural campaign, Jason Newburger and the all-senior Vernon Hills Cougars showed it had the offense to hang with anyone. Erick Lemcke and Grant will have something to say about the North Suburban Prairie title, as should Zion. But don't forget about North Chicago and Wauconda. Round Lake could surprise as well. Carmel has just about everyone back from a 9-4 club that went deep into the Catholic League playoffs last year. Look for coach Andy Bitto and the troops to mix it up with league powers Joliet Catholic, Marian Catholic and Bishop MacNamara.

Matt Van Daele and Matt Hadsell are graduates from a Warren team that shared the NSC Lake title with Libertyville last season. But the Devils have a solid defense and decent rushing attack to contend with favorites Stevenson and Libertyville, who are led by Colorado-bound tailback Gerett Burl. Antioch lost key players in Eric White and Scott Hodina but the ground game of Allen Patin and Dan Miodonski make the Sequoias dangerous as well. Second-year coach Jeff Geary and Mundelein could be a dark horse in the loaded NSC Lake.

Turning a little westward, Eric Flanders dashed for nearly 1,000 yards and defensive monster Sam Stahnke is showcasing his talents at Illinois Wesleyan this fall. But Grayslake has Rhys Salmonson calling the signals and Ryan Glynn anchoring the 'D' in the always-rugged Fox Valley. Watch how the team responds under first-year coach Vito Andriola, who comes to the Rams from league rival Woodstock, which Grayslake hosts Aug. 31.

With the new playoff format implemented by the Illinois High School Association, it's possible the Lakeland-area could see as many as nine teams head to the post-season dance.

LAKELAND MEDIA PRE-SEASON PLAYER OF THE YEAR

Lemcke does it all for Grant

If experience is the best teacher, Eric Lemcke can give some lessons in Football 101.

Lemcke is entering his third season as quarterback for the Grant Bulldogs. His duties do not end there. He is a punter who had a 30-yard average last year, and plays a solid defensive back. The only time fans won't see the 6-foot-3-inch, senior is on kick offs or selling tickets at the gate.

His third season on the varsity is off to a great start with a 20-7 win at Johnsburg. He was 7-for-14 passing with two touchdowns, and ran for another while racking up 97 yards rushing.

"Coach Barczak said it would be a tough game for a half and to play them tough," Lemcke said afterward. "Our conditioning drills were tough. We do not have the numbers we have had, but coaches always say to play hard each down," Lemcke said.

His versatility has earned the senior the Pre-season All-Lakeland Newspapers MVP honor.

"He is so much more comfortable in our offense this year," said head coach Mark Barczak.

Last year's resume, a 6-3 season for Grant, featured a 13-TD, 900-yard passing effort by Lemcke was not exactly something to sneeze at, either.

This fall, Lemcke has several running backs to call on for the tough, short-yardage plays. Junior Nathan Rodriguez rushed for 70 yards in the opener. Seniors T.J. Fraum, Sean Quirk, Jim Walleck, and Ivan Gonzalez, all had about equal amount of carries. Lemcke called his own number when the Bulldogs needed a big run or a fourth-down gain.

Lemcke and Behm compliment each other's natural abilities. Behm has been a varsity starter since his sophomore year, calling the signals on defense. "We are on the same page," Lemcke said.

Like all good quarterbacks, he complimented his linemen. "The line did a great job in pass blocking. That is Mike Madlener, John Hoersch, Bill Landwehr, Tom Hill and Jason Purcell," Lemcke said.

The soft-spoken Lemcke, who also plays basketball and baseball for the Bulldogs, said he has been a quarterback since his youth football days.

And the word on him is spreading. Wauconda assistant coach Cory Kazimour called Lemcke and Jason Newburger of Vernon Hills the top signal-callers in the NSC.

There are eight weeks to go, with Grant's next foe is Aug. 31 at home against Westosha Central (Wis.). But with Lemcke at the guiding the offense, Grant will be a very entertaining team to watch.

PLAYERS TO WATCH

RB Gerett Burl, Sr.
Libertyville

Following a solid season in 2000 in which he gained 826 rushing yards on 96 carries with eight touchdowns, expectations are high for senior running back Gerett Burl. He will be expected to shoulder much of the load for Libertyville's running attack as the Wildcats go for another 9-win season and North Suburban (Lake) title. He will also use his 4.40 second 40-yard dash speed on defense as one of the area's top cover cornerbacks. Burl has signed on to attend the University of Colorado under Coach Gary Barnett in 2002.

QB Jason Newburger, Sr.
Vernon Hills

Vernon Hills will run its offense squarely on the arm and legs of senior quarterback Jason Newburger out of the option as he comes off a season in 2000 in which he went 95-for-122 for 1,600-plus yards and 18 touchdowns. More is expected of him in 2001 as he shoots for 1,000 rushing yards to go along with another 1,500 yards passing in leading the Cougars to what will hopefully be a winning season in just their second year of existence.

Grayslake

After working in the defensive backfield with the likes of Sam Stahnke (Illinois Wesleyan) and Dan Teschner (Northern Illinois), Glynn is ready to lead the Rams defense. Last season, the co-captain had 52 tackles to go along with six sacks. Glynn will also look to be an offensive threat at the running back position. Glynn had a fumble recovery as the Rams downed Cary 7-6 in the season-opener. He also had a 34-yard ave. punting last year.

New playoff format combined wins of all opponents and combined wins of defeated opponents.

For the 256th and final spot, tiebreakers include head-to-head competition (if the two teams have played during the season), the number of teams played that have qualified for the playoffs, the number of wins by teams played that qualified for the playoffs while the final verdict will be decided by coin flip.

The addition of 7A and 8A obviously indicate the larger-enrolled schools.

The classes will be as follows: 1A (enrollment up to 295 students), 2A (296-403), 3A (404-526), 4A (527-724), 5A (725-1,158), 6A (1,159-1,638), 7A (1,639-2,168) and 8A (2,169 and above).

Once playoff teams are determined, the higher seed will host first-round games. In subsequent rounds, the school that has hosted fewer times during the current playoff series hosts the game. If both teams have hosted an equal number of times, the higher seed hosts the game, but if both teams have the same seed, the team with the higher seeding criteria (wins, playoff points, etc., as listed above) is the host. If all these criteria are equal, a coin flip decides the home team.

JohnsburgHead coach: Bob BradshawLast year: 3-6Key returning players: G/DL Andy Foreman (Sr); RB/LB Nick Ackerman (Jr); T/DT Ryan Daley (Sr); K Adam Vesely (Jr).Outlook: Johnsburg, no stranger to the post-season in years past, struggled to a 3-6 finish last season. A big offensive and defensive line should open plenty of holes for Ackerman, who scored the lone touchdown in the Skyhawks 20-7 loss to Grant in the season-opener. Games at the much-improved Round Lake and Richmond-Burton will be key tests in the early part of the season. Stay away from turnovers and the big plays and the Skyhawks should rebound nicely.2001 Varsity Schedule

Carmel lost to Libertyville in the first-round of the Class 5A playoffs last season but then advanced to the semifinals of the Catholic League playoffs. Almost everyone returns for coach Bitto, with the exception of Ben Lawrence, Luke Larson, Jon Mikrut and Justin Hubbard. Quarterback Roe returns after a sparkling All-conference year in 2000. He will have plenty of support on offense with tight end Sean Walker and wideout Jack Simmons to throw to. Eric Luna will be the workhorse rushing the ball but Pat Adrien stepped up with 140 yards and two scores in a 35-7 season-opening win over Lake Forest. Defensively, the Corsairs are sound with Reid, Bruening and Duprey.Quoteable: "The defensive line isn't very big, but they're all tough as nails. Andriola, though a perfectionist, believes in simplicity. Grayslake will look to pass more with co-captain Salmonson at the helm. When the aerial attack isn't working, Glynn and Jackson will pound the ball on the ground. On defense, Glynn, a co-captain with six sacks a year ago, will anchor a solid secondary that also features Brauer, the third co-captain, Zawoski, Swearingen and Mellender. North Suburban-LakeAntioch*Head coach: Del Pechauer (13 yrs.)Last year: 6-4, 3-2 NSC-Lake (lost first round 5A playoffs)Key returning players: QB P.J. Hilbert (Sr); RB Allen Patin (Sr); RB Dan Miodonski (Sr); OL Tom Chilcote (Sr); OE/DB Jeff Huebner (Sr); DB Trent Domel (Sr).Outlook: In years past, the Sequoias have used the aerial attack to set up the run. This year, however, fullback Miodonski and tailback Patin will be used frequently to set up the pass. When the running attack isn't working, P.J. Hilbert, who attended football camp in Europe over the summer, is certainly capable of throwing for a ton of yards, especially when he has Huebner and sophomore tight ends Rich Brown and Chris Kiddoo to go to. The defense needs to avoid 'arm tackling', as issue Green, Domel, Gehrke and Chilcote will address immediately. Making big plays and using the running game for sustained drives are strengths. Giving up the big play is an area that needs to be worked on.Quoteable: "We have a bigger line and bigger backs. University of Colorado-signee Gerett Burl will combine with the lightning speed of running back Charles Williams and quarterback Kevin Egidi to lead the Wildcats on offense. Klassman will be the workhorse when it comes to pounding the ball up the middle. Defensively, the Cats will once again use their heralded 46-defense to pressure the quarterback and the running attack. Last season the 'D' held opponents to just under 12 points per contest. Some may think this team is rebuilding - it simply reloaded.Quoteable: "This team will be every bit as good as it was last year." - Randy Kuceyeski2001 Varsity Schedule

But following a full year of Geary and his coaching staff working with the team on strength and conditioning, the Mustangs appear to be improved in every aspect of the game. Returning quarterback Adam Austin will once again be the strength of the offense but the team does plan to run more with track star Jamie Hawkins in the backfield. With no real standouts to speak of on defense, Mundelein will use a 4-4 scheme to contain the opposition. The early part of the schedule will be key if the Mustangs hope to reach their team goal of five wins.

Feller (Sr); DL/RB Justin Williams (Sr); DL/OL Kyle Owens (Sr); DL/OL Justin Martindale (Sr); DB/WR Paul Dubler (Sr).Outlook: Of course, the likes of all-purpose player Matt Van Daele and defensive monster Matt Hadsell have departed. But tailback Justin Williams has speed and quickness and should be a nice replacement. The defense will be anchored by 6-0, 270-pounder Ricky Soto will harass quarterbacks from his line-man position. Dubler, Tyler Smith and junior Ryan Treiber are all nice targets for signal-caller Feller as the Devils look to pass more this season. With all good news usually comes bad - running back Chase will miss the season with a torn ACL.Quoteable: "We'll be a lot more balanced this year. (C.J. Lemcke is a threat on the option. He passed for 789 yards while rumbling for another 910. Behm is also back for his senior campaign. The tight end caught 26 balls for 350 yards last season. Senior tackle Mike Sherrer (6-2, 232) will lead the defense. Lineman Neil Ganno sustained a knee injury during practice and will be sidelined for at least another week. The Bulldogs were second in the Prairie last year but are favorites along with Zion and Vernon Hills for the division title this fall.Quoteable: "Winning the first one is huge. (Sr); LB Scott Kreger (Sr); G/LB Jason Kalinowski (Sr); WR/OL Wes Schroeder (Sr); C Mike Pfeleger (Sr); RB Kevin Parker (Jr).

Outlook: The wishbone is gone at Round Lake. Instead, the Panthers will be more of a passing team. Doesn't matter when you have four-year starting quarterback Dallas Bassett calling the shots. Last year, Bassett scored 67 points. In the 34-14 season-opening win over Westosha Central (Wis.), Bassett tossed a pair of scores while returning another on defense for a score. Kevin Parker has plenty of speed and will complement Bassett well in the backfield. Parker also scored twice against Westosha. The big key will be avoiding turnovers. Fatigue will be a factor as well because several players play both offense and defense. The Panthers will be tested early with non-conference games with Stevenson and Antioch looming.Quoteable: "If we don't get banged up with the non-conference schedule, we should be in good shape because I see the Prairie division being a wide open race." - Kevin Dempsey2001 Varsity Schedule

That won't happen this season. The Bulldogs will look to the leadership and guidance from its senior 1-2 punch of quarterback Brian Malone and running back Steve Glomski. However, in its season-opening 28-7 win over Johnsburg, back-up signal-caller Jack Kopacz, playing for Malone, who is injured, tossed two touchdown passes. Frazier was a monster on defense, recording three sacks in the win over the Skyhawks.Quoteable: "Our division is outstanding. The Cougars will rely heavily on their experience and speed to overcome their relative lack of size on defense, led by leading tackler Noah Borden. Vernon Hills coach Tony Monken feels that this team can make a three-game improvement over its inaugural season in 2000 to finish with five wins and a possible playoff spot.Quoteable: "We went from being the least experienced team to the most experienced in one year. Money put to good use

Carmel High School's athletic program has continued to make strides in upgrading its facilities over the past few years.

New bleachers, a soccer field, batting cages and a fence for the baseball field are just some of the improvements made at the Mundelein school.

Now, a new weight room can be added to the list. Carmel unveiled their addition in June after raising over $50,000 at the Final Four party in March. Corsair athletes now have the benefit of more machines and more space in their new weight room while preparing for the upcoming season.

"We got a couple leg machines, expanded the free weights, squat racks and benches and the center club that does our training gave us about five or six different types of resistance machines that we didn't have before," said Andy Bitto, athletic director and head varsity football coach. "The room has twice the size square footage as our old one did."

Larry Scire, director of sports medicine at Condell Medical Center, has been instrumental in providing the services of athletic trainers and new equipment at several area schools along with equipment at several local police and fire stations.

"The kids are getting healthier and the schools are becoming more prepared to handle injuries," Scire said. "We're doing are part at Condell to help schools meet the goals for overall fitness of athletes and non-athletes as well." And Bitto couldn't be happier.

"Larry takes really good care of us because our kids take good care of the machines," Bitto said. "When they have an extra machine, he tries to bring it over for us."

Scire said that Condell has provided 16 bodymaster weight machines and numerous free weights, Olympic bars and weight lifting machines.

Grant High School is another that is expanding their athletic facilities. According to Scire, they hope to have a fully equipped training room by January of next year. It will be fully-equipped and state-of-the-art. The College of Lake County is also working towards upgrading their facilities through the help of Condell.

"We're helping provide athletic training and services (at CLC) right now," added Scire. "We're always looking for a high school that is interested in affiliating with us."

The Libertyville and Gurnee Fire Departments have been the recipient of equipment from Condell as well.

"Our mission is everything goes back to the community," said Scire. "There have been major improvements for the athletes in the area."

The Carmel football team has benefited a great deal from the new weight room according to senior linebacker Josh Bruening.

"This is my third year on varsity and it's probably been the best lifting year for the team," he stated. "The last weight room was very cramped and it was hard to move around in. The new one is nice because we have a lot more space to work with."

With another project completed, Bitto is now looking towards upgrading the trainer's room.

"That's my next project," Bitto said. "The plan is to make the old weight room a bigger training facility. Down the road we're also looking at putting in a new track, new tennis courts and re-crowning the football field. Those are some of our goals for the future."

Sing with the Bears

By ROB BACKUS
Staff Reporter

Chicago Bears running back and Vernon Hills resident James Allen will be among those participating in the first annual "Sing with the Pros" Karaoke event at Cubby Bear Lincolnshire, located between Route 22 and Deerfield Parkway in Lincolnshire, on September 10.

The event is coordinated in conjunction with Cubby Bear Sports Marketing to benefit the Illinois Literacy Foundation, Allen's primary charity.

"James (Allen) wanted to do something to give back to the community and he is a big believer in literacy," said Francie Portrey, Director of Marketing for Cubby Bear and former Director of Special Events for the Chicago Bears. "He met with (Illinois Secretary of State) Jesse White and they came up with the idea of Karaoke with the Bears."

Other Bears scheduled to attend include: Jerry Azumah, Waukegan residents Rosevelt Colvin and Warrick Holdman, Patrick Mannely, Vernon Hills resident Jim Miller, Tony Parrish, Marcus Robinson, Brian Urlacher and James Williams.

"I think this is going to be a riot," said Portrey. "I can't wait to see some of these players sing."

Prices for the event are as follows: $20 for general admission, $100 for individual participants and $500 for four to six member teams. Each participant will be paired with a Bear and performances will be videotaped, with the tape given to the participant(s).

Jesse White will also be in attendance, and perhaps will sing as well.

"Something like this has never been done before," said Portrey. "(James) Allen organized it and got his teammates together for a worthy cause. It's a great opportunity for fans to be up close to players, to get autographs and pictures and, most importantly, to benefit the Illinois Literacy Foundation."

Reservations for the event are strongly encouraged and can be made by contacting Francie Portrey at 847-362-1991.

Keep it under control

By a 113-0-0 vote over the summer, the Illinois House of Representatives passed Senate Bill 50, the so-called Referee Assault legislation. The bill had previously been passed by the Senate. Hence, the bill now goes to Governor Ryan for signature.

Licensed officials and school representatives are encouraged to write to Governor Ryan and encourage his signature of this important and useful legislation. When you write, be sure to emphasize the fact that Senate Bill 50 does not create new protections for athletic officials. Those protections already exist in the Illinois criminal code.

What the bill does, however, is establish a mandatory maximum fine of $1000 for battery of a sports official and a mandatory $2000 fine for a second or subsequent offense. The benefit of these mandatory penalties is that they will motivate the prosecution of violators of the present protective statutes by establishing mandatory penalties for conviction. The expected result will be active prosecution of violation against officials and a resultant deterrent against such violent acts.

Banner year for Fielder's Choice

Fielder's Choice Sports Complex in Sturtevant, Wis. is just winding down its summer season and has had a banner year for the four field sports complex that is operated by Lake County Baseball, a federal, not for profit corporation.

Two NSA Baseball World Series were held, the U-12 and the U-13. The Redan Cardinals from Stone Mountain, Ga., won first-place in the U-12 World Series. The Jonesboro Mariners captured second-place. In the U-13 World Series the winners were the Countertop Sluggers of Rockford (first place) and the Germantown Mustangs from Wisconsin (second-place). Teams from Illinois, Wisconsin, Georgia and Louisiana participated in the tournaments and enjoyed activities such as a homerun derby, other skills contests, a picnic for players, parents, and community leaders, and a trip to the Brewers game.

Local businesses and hotels rolled out the red carpet for these teams and made them feel welcome as they explored the many restaurants and attractions in southeast Wisconsin. This is the first time that Fielder's Choice has hosted a National World Series and they have plans to bring more National Competition to the park in the coming seasons. This summer also saw two ASA Softball National Tournaments hosted at Fielders Choice for Girls Fast Pitch as well as a Monday night girls fast pitch league sponsored by the Milwaukee Metro League.

Not stopping yet, plans for Fall Ball are in the works. Fall softball leagues will again play on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Sunday evenings at the park. Men's, women's and coed leagues are now forming. If you have a team that is looking for a place to play fall softball, contact Fielder's Choice Sports Complex at 262-886-3400.

And Youth Baseball Leagues for weekend play are in the works again. The response to last year's formation of fall baseball was so tremendous that Fielder's Choice is again planning to offer the fall ball program. Teams ages 10, 11, 12, 13 and 14 will be playing double-headers each weekend during the months of September and October. The fee is $250 per team.

Fielder's Choice is also looking for coaches who would be willing to take on independent players for team play. Many ball players without a team are looking for a team to play with and if coaches were available to take on such a team we could accommodate these ball players. If you are interested contact Lake County Baseball in Illinois 847-945-9606 or Fielder's Choice Sports Complex in Wisconsin 262-886-3400.

TIP OF THE WEEK By Pro Joe Bitterman at Bobby's Golf Center
• THE POWER OF POSITIVE THINKING •

When approaching a golf shot, instead of focusing on where you don't want to hit the ball, focus on where you would like your shot to end up. Many golfers worry about the obstacles ahead, which puts them in a negative state of mind. This adds tension to the swing, which invariably ends with negative results. Take away the negative thoughts and be positive, visualize your shot landing at your target. A positive state of mind puts you at ease, and frees up your body so you can produce the shot you desire.

Finding the Right Resume Service is Important By Scott T. Fleischmann

As we learned last week, a resume service can improve your odds of getting an interview with the decision-maker that can hire you. But how can you identify the resume service that will do the best job with your skills and experience?
Here are some helpful ideas:

Ask to see the resume of the person who will be writing your resume. You will want to look at both the format of the resume and the level of experience. Does this person have broad industry experience or has he or she specialized in a specific industry? If their experience is industry specific, is their experience in your industry?

Ask how long they have been in business. Those that have been in business a longer time typically have more satisfied clients. They may also know the names of people that may have a need for your skills.

Ask the interviewer at the resume service how you will be charged. Get specific cost information on the writing of the resume and any additional options and the charges that are associated with those options.

Ask for three references of people in your industry who have used their services. Call these references and ask what he or she liked about the service and what they did not like.
Ask what you need to do to get the most out of the services provided. Ask them about their level of satisfaction.

I suggest getting all of this information from at least three services then comparing each of them to your needs. After evaluating the results of your research, your selection will be a well-informed decision. Then, knowing that the next step is a comprehensive interview with the resume writer, you can prepare for that meeting.

Alice Jorgensen of All Write Resume Service in Libertyville, IL, suggests taking some time to review your accomplishments. Although the interviewer should be prepared to ask the right questions, you can help by having as much information as possible. Jorgensen recommends preparing by focusing on how you have used your skills to make your employers profitable.

In addition you can expect that the interviewer will ask how you intend to use the resume. If you plan to send the resume to many possible employers, they will recommend a different resume style than if your plans are to target a few specific companies.

From the point of the interview until you have a finished resume will usually take between two and five business days. According to Jorgensen, "Most people find it to be a pleasant experience because we are focused completely on them. Our job is to make the best out of each person's background. If they want advice in negotiating salary, we can even provide that."

As you can see, a professional resume service can increase your chances of getting an interview. Getting that interview is the first step for employment agencies. They are in the business of providing qualified candidates to employers, so they have many contacts that you may want to leverage in your job search. We will explore their services next week.

Young Marines kick off boot camp at Ft. Sheridan

Youths participate in military-style training program

By LANCE CARR
Correspondent

Clad in shorts, T-shirts and blue jeans and not knowing what to expect, 30 youths fell into formation, Aug. 18, to the sound of two Young Marine Drill Instructors as they embarked on the goal of becoming Young Marines.

The Young Marines are open to both males and females ages 8-17. A new unit comprised of young people from the Midwest and West Coast was inaugurated last Saturday on Ft. Sheridan.

For the next two weeks, volunteer Young Marine instructors will teach their new recruits in a boot camp style-training program. After 56 hours of instruction on topics like first-aid, land navigation, Marine/US History, winter survival and etiquette, the new recruits are given a pair of dog tags and officially inducted into the Young Marines.

"We are really an extension of the family," said Stu Unger, a volunteer instructor.

The Young Marines began in the 1950s as a non-profit youth organization for individuals ages 8-17. While they have imbedded in their name "Marines," the young Marines are not a part of the Marine Corps, nor do they promote military service.

"The goal of the Young Marines is the promotion of team work, instilling self-confidence, aiding a young person's education and the building of good citizens," explained Unger.

The Young Marines are some 15,000 members strong and have members in units throughout the world from the continental United States, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, Guam and Okinawa.

Young Marine staff members all work as unpaid volunteers, like Ensign Thomas Lymer, a nurse/corpsman assigned to Naval Hospital Great Lakes, who became involved after his son showed interest in the program. "Kids need to belong to something, they need to feel self-worth and pride," said Lymer.

Lymer is now executive officer of the Young Marines unit at Fort Sheridan.

Jess Zuno, an administration officer for the Young Marines and a former member of the Philippine Republic's Marine Corps, explained his involvement in the Young Marines as a heartfelt duty.

"America has been good to me, I wanted to give something back," Zuno said.

Terry Edwards was on active duty with the Marine Corps for three years and is now a Young Marine Platoon Commander.

Reflecting on the appeal of his organization to the country's youth he said "The Young Marines give kids the discipline they are looking for."

Young Marine recruits fall in as they are introduced to drill and ceremony by two of their instructors.

Burning wood – the real McCoy

Woodburning stoves and fireplaces are a time-honored, and time-proven, means of keeping your home warm and your family safe.

Sales of these products have increased substantially over the past two years, as homeowners reacted first to the Y2K threat, then to the impact of skyrocketing fossil fuel prices and the threat of shortages.

Even without such man-made crises, Mother Nature regularly presents a variety of challenges in the form of snowstorms, ice storms, hurricanes, earthquakes, floods and mudslides. A wood stove or fireplace provides warmth for your family and protection against bursting pipes when the temperature outside plummets to freezing levels.

Yes, there is some effort involved in burning wood, particularly if you cut and split your own. (That in itself provides exercise and a sense of self-sufficiency and accomplishment.) But most homeowners will purchase their wood by the cord, and the effort is greatly diminished. Wood must be stacked, and lugged to the stove or fireplace. A fire must be started with kindling and paper, and it must be replenished.

Burning wood in a fireplace immediately signals a warming and waiting home. Built-in or added later, Lakeland residents find their fireplace or stove provides a focus for gathering or relaxed, easy living. Tending a real home fire is worth the effort.

FUTURE PLANS

Falcon Crest

The Falcon Crest (G24-710) with its many roof angles is very distinctive to the eye. The use of brick and shutters around the large windows with fanlight transoms overhead adds to the attractiveness of the home. Two-stories containing 2,439 square feet with an optional basement of 1,383 square feet could make this home spacious for a large family.

Entering the Falcon Crest across a covered porch brings one directly into a formal foyer. To the right through French doors is the study/guest room. By its convenient location, this room could also be used as an office. It does not have a closet, however, one has been noted as an option. Beyond the study down the foyer hall is a full bath with a shower, also ideal for the guest room concept.

The laundry room contains a large broom closet as well as a door to the two-car garage. On the opposite hall wall is lovely landing staircase to the second floor as well as stairs to the optional basement. Just past the stairs around the corner is large pantry, easily accessible to the kitchen.

The entire back of the Falcon Crest is open with the kitchen on the left and the family room on the right. The kitchen is L-shaped with an island in middle. The breakfast nook has large windows bathing the area in light. A wonderful feature has been in a see-through fireplace between the kitchen and the family room. French doors open to the back yard off the family room. It adds warmth and a great aesthetic look.

For entertaining purposes, a formal dining and living room have been added on the left side of the home. Elegance emanates from the two rooms with coffered ceilings and an archway with columns separating them. These two rooms will make family gatherings or elaborate parties a true success.

The upstairs contains the master suite and three other bedrooms. Again, French doors have been used in the master suite, adding a touch of grandeur.

For a study plan, including scaled floor plan(s), elevations, section(s) and an artist rendering send $24.95 to Landmark Designs, 33127 Saginaw Road E, Cottage Grove, OR 97424. Specify plan name (Falcon Crest and the number (G24-710). A catalog featuring hundreds of home plans is available for $12.95, or save by ordering both for $29.95. Buy the right way; learn at seminar

There is a right way and a wrong way to purchase a home.

Going about the process of buying a home with confidence will be offered at a Home Buyer Workshop at 7 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 20, at the Grayslake Community Park District, 151 Hawley St.

Florence Emling, a professional realtor, will take prospective buyers through the process. Learn the buzzwords, the legal terms, and learn about home inspection, credit scoring and the mortgage programs available.

There are advantages to working with a buyer's agent, according to Emling. Information booklets will be distributed.

A $5 fee will be charged to park district residents.

Non-residents are welcome by paying a $6 fee. Registration is required and can be arranged by calling 847-223-7529.

Self-marketing seminar offered

Selling your own home is no walk in the park. But it can be done, and, if done right, is worth the effort.

Homeowners considering "do-it-yourself" marketing can learn dos and don'ts.

RE/MAX of Grayslake will conduct a seminar for self-marketing at 10 a.m. Saturday, Sept. 22, at the Warren Township Building, 17801 W. Washington St.

Instructor Florence Emling will discuss contracts, legal obligations, credit review, home inspection and preparation of the home. An attorney, a loan broker, a home inspector and real estate professionals will be part of the programs.

Seating can be guaranteed by calling 1-800-211-RELO.

How to attract winter birds to your garden

There's nothing more delightful than watching birds flit from one area of your garden to the next. Attracting birds to your yard is really quite simple: if you supply their three basic needs -- food, shelter and water -- you will have an avian oasis in your own backyard.

Eichhorst & Company receives 'Big 50' award from 'Remodeling Magazine'

The Remodelers Council congratulates Eichhorst & Company Remodeling & Design, Inc. Mike Nagel, president of the Remodelers Council of Greater Chicago, was recently present when Gary and Debbie Eichhorst were inducted into the Remodelers Hall of Fame in Washington, D.C. They are one of only 50 Remodeling contractors nationwide to receive the honor this year.

Each year since 1985, 'Remodeling Magazine' has conducted a search to identify the best remodeling contractors in the nation. After considerable research into the potential recipients, the magazine (which has a circulation of over 80,000 issues and has identified at least 200,000 remodeling contractors nationwide) conducts interviews with 250-300 contractors to make the final determination of which 50 will receive this coveted award.

Eichhorst says that he "didn't realize the significance and magnitude of the award until he attended the conference." There were several nationally recognized speakers at the conference and several of the industry leaders.

The awards ceremony was extremely formal with approximately 200 past recipients in attendance as well as this year's inductees. Each member of the 'Class of 2001' was individually recognized and presented with a crystal award by the Editor-in-Chief and the Publisher.

Eichhorst feels that his participation in the NAHB Remodelers Council was key in being selected. Eichhorst has been in business since 1978 and has absorbed several other companies in growing. The company has recently been awarded the "Owens Corning Basement Finishing System" franchise in Lake and McHenry counties.

How did the magazine find out about Eichhorst & Company in our relatively obscure location? In October of '98, Eichhorst attended a three-day Remodeling Success Superconference in Chicago and became visible to industry leaders. Eichhorst participates in a bimonthly "Mastermind" tele-conference call with about 60 remodeling contractors from all corners of the nation to discuss industry and business issues that we all face. In June of '99, Eichhorst attended another Superconference in Atlanta with over 100 other contractors. The facilitator nominated Eichhorst & Company to be considered for the award.

Eichhorst has been interviewed several times on industry issues surrounding remodeling. In addition, Eichhorst publishes a consumer awareness report titled "The 10 Biggest Mistakes Homeowners Make When Remodeling," which Eichhorst believes caught the attention of the six editors that had the final say in which remodelers received the award.

Contact Gary Eichhorst at (815) 675-6151, or log on the eichhorstandcompany.com.

The experts at Garden Artisans, www.gardenartisans.com, offer these tips for enjoying birds in your backyard all winter long:

Food

As winter approaches and the natural food supply for birds dwindles, birds become dependent on bird feeders for seeds and suet. Although there is debate about whether artificial feeding disrupts the migration urge of some birds, research shows this is not a significant concern.

For birds that are not strong enough to migrate due to injury or illness or because of some undeveloped natural migration cue, your feeder may be what enables them to live through winter. Also, for birds that do not migrate, winter storms can bury their food supply. When you add to that the natural condition of reduced time for foraging due to shorter days, winter is a real hardship for birds.

There are two ways to provide food: through bird feeders and by growing plants around your yard that offer fruits, seeds and a habitat that birds love. Black oil sunflower seed is the best seed to attract a diverse group of birds to your feeder, including chickadees, nuthatches, finches, cardinals, grosbeaks, sparrows, blackbirds and jays.

To attract insect-eating birds such as woodpeckers, chickadees and nuthatches, offer suet in the wintertime. Ground feeding birds like juncos, sparrows, towhees and mourning doves prefer cracked corn scattered on the ground or placed in an elevated tray. Plants to add to your landscape include serviceberry, dogwood, fir, hawthorn, sweet gum, crabapple, pine, coralberry and fruit-bearing viburnums. Seed-producing flowers that will attract birds include aster, blanket flower, cone flower, sunflowers, black-eyed Susans, California poppies, goldenrod, marigolds, phlox, salvias and zinnias.

Things to remember about feeders:

- It's nice if you can place the feeder so you can watch birds from a comfortable location, but also keep in mind their needs. They need an escape route, so make sure you place the feeder near shrubs or evergreen trees so they can make a quick get-away.

Woody plants with thorns, such as roses or hawthorn, are helpful to birds because they provide refuge from predators such as house cats. This can also help keep the feeders out of the rain and food dry.

- Keep your feeders clean to prevent diseases and deter pests. Disinfect occasionally with one part chlorine bleach and nine parts lukewarm water and dry thoroughly before refilling.

- Once you start to provide food for birds, continue throughout the cold season. It's best to provide only one type of food per feeder. Birds feeding at feeders with mixed seed discard the seeds they do not want while selecting their favorites.

- Do not feed birds spoiled leftovers, salty snack foods or sugary cereals.

Shelter

Shelter can be provided in many ways, including bird houses or nest boxes. As winter days grow longer after solstice, birds get ready to mate and nest, so it is time to start thinking about putting up a bird house or nest shelf. Fall is a great time to shop for bird houses, remembering that many people you know would welcome a birdhouse as a Christmas present.

Your Home Interiors, Ltd. is on the move

Nancy Peters, co-owner of Your Home Interiors, Ltd. summarized the move, "We were at a crossroads with our interior decorating business. We had to decide where we were going to focus our energy. While we'd like to be all things to all people, we knew our strengths and passions were in home decorating." With this in mind, owners, Kay Chiappetta and Nancy Peters decided it was time to upgrade their wallpaper and fabric selection and move to a bigger store. We're carrying a larger selection of foundation pieces such as lamps, tables, upholstered furniture and wall decor. However, we will always maintain a large selection of quality candles, unique gifts and one-of-a-kind gift baskets. We've expanded our floral department and hired an on-site floral designer for custom requests. Both owners say their focus is on value. We may not always offer the least expensive product. However, when we measure and install we guarantee your satisfaction. Kay and Nancy have made it their mission, to have a place where customers can come for individualized attention and help with color and pattern choices. Your Home Interiors, Ltd. offers help that you will not get from the Internet or chain stores. Customers save money because Your Home Interiors, Ltd. helps them make the right choices for their budget, lifestyle and taste in decorating, when we understand your needs we help you to eliminate waste from costly mistakes, measure errors and errors from ordering the wrong hardware or other products for your home. Customers receive assistance with window treatment design choices that show a one of a kind designer's touch. Customers benefit from the experience and talent the window treatment and interior designers from Your Home Interiors, Ltd. have to offer. Come visit Your Home Interiors, Ltd. at their new location in the Linden Plaza on Grand Ave. in Lindenhurst. their new store hours are Monday, Wednesday and Saturday from 10-5, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday from 10-7 and Sunday from 11-4. Imagination makes use of versatility of glass

by PATRICIA L. JOHNSON

Jim Moulton became involved in the glass industry in 1968 with an investment of $300 and "wishful thinking."

Wishful thinking and hard work paid off as Moulton is now president and major stockholder of Nu-Diamond Glass, Inc. 39 S. Rte. 12 in Fox Lake. Moulton has been at the Fox Lake location since 1984.

Nu-Diamond is extremely diversified in operations and provides glass service for three basic applications, windows, storefronts and automobiles.

Their new glass service includes window service, mirrors, tabletops, shower doors, thermo panes, storm windows, patio storm door, screening, closet doors and glass blocks. Nu-Diamond clients may choose any design they wish for their glass and it will be applied using an acid etching and sandblasting technique. Nu-Diamond will also install windshields in your car, boat, bus or tractor.

In addition to providing new glass service to homeowners and contractors, Nu-Diamond has a window repair service, which includes 24-hour re-screening. A selection of replacement parts is also available for your windows.

When asked what was new in the glass industry, Moulton smiled and state, "basically the only thing that changes is the year". He's obviously trying to keep his treasures a secret as a tour of the showroom tells a different tale. Nu-Diamond distributes the Basco line of shower doors and the selection of glass and frames that you can choose from is incredible.

A consumer has the option of customizing their purchase by mixing and matching 12 different types of glass, with 16 different frames for a truly unique look. Moulton also distributes the Precision Door & Glass line of entry doors for your home, which includes front doors, side and back doors and patio doors, which are available in wood grain, steel and fiberglass. These doors are available in 18 different colors and may be further customized with various choices of decorative glass and an impressive selection of hardware.

The showroom offers samples of glass and mirrors in a large variety of shapes, sizes and designs. The Nu-Diamond showroom is a great place for getting home improvement ideas. Moulton states that the majority of his customers usually have "something on their mind" before they arrive at the showroom. If you don't have anything on your mind and you're looking for something a little different for your home, browse through the showroom and let your imagination do the rest.

Moulton's hobby is gardening and you may see some of his handiwork as you pull into the Nu-Diamond parking lot. You may reach Jim Moulton and his staff by phone at 587-2226, (800) 255-0340 or by fax at (847) 587-2241.

Entire family can use modern home office

by PATRICIA L. JOHNSON

If you're contemplating purchasing furnishings for your home office, consider a trip to Rudolph's Furniture located at the corner of Rte. 83 & Center St., Grayslake.

Rudolph's is a family-owned business which was originally founded by Irving and Isabelle Rudolph in 1970. Tim Rafferty, current co-owner and general manager, began working at Rudolph's part-time in 1975 as a delivery boy and 'gopher'. Tim eventually married Lisa Rudolph and in January of 1999, Tim and Lisa Rafferty bought out the Rudolphs' interest in the business. Rudolph's is a full-line furniture store carrying such name brands as Martin, Legacy, Riverside, Stanley and Peters-Revington. Rudolph's home office line consists of computer desks ranging from small workstations to executive desks with hutch's and secretarial returns on them and computer armoire's.

Rudolph's offers a full line of matching bookcases credenzas, and field cabinets to compliment their computer desks. The furniture comes in mission style, traditional, contemporary and transitional styles. Light oak and mission oak are available as well as cherry and shaker brown cherry.

Desk chairs and lamps are also available, as well as recliners. Tim explains that "many people turn their home office into a retreat where the wife can pay the bills, the husband can bring home a little work from the office and the kids can use the computer".

According to Tim, "space permitting, many homeowners are adding recliners to their home office where people can go in and read too".

Tim states that furnishing your home office is a very personal thing. Each case is individual depending upon the size of the room, and is definitely predicated on what type of office equipment you already have. If all you have is a computer and a telephone a small workstation should meet your needs.

If your home office is being established for a home-based business you are going to have more equipment like fax machines, telephones, printers and scanners. In that case, in addition to the computer desk and hutch, you would need more accessory pieces like lateral files and credenza's.

Although Rudolph's Furniture does not carry any RTA (ready to assemble) office furniture, they sell their all-wood products at ready to assemble prices. They have been able to lower their costs on some home office products by using independent distributors and this savings is passed on to you. Historically, Rudolph's has been known for selling quality merchandise at lower prices.

You can contact Rudolph's Furniture by phone at 223-5497 or by fax at 223-6049. You may also visit their website at www.rudolphsfurniture.com.
